Lee Again Across the Rappahannock in Force.

TWO ENGAGEMENTS ON SATURDAY.

Gen. Gregg's Cavalry Division Driven Back With Heavy Loss.

Severe Fighting near Bealton Station.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT TO A CATTLE TRAIN

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, Oct. 25.

E. A. PAUL sends the following to this Bureau:

HEADQUARTERS ARMY POTOMAC, Saturday, Oct. 24.

The enemy's infantry recrossed the Rappahannock this morning, upon two pontoon bridges, near the Orange and Alexandria Railroad bridge, and driving back Gen. GREGG's cavalry division, which lost heavily, had a short engagement with two brigades of our infantry, one belonging to the Second corps and the other to the Third corps.

The enemy now occupy a line the left of which rests near Beverly Ford, crossing the railroad near Bealton Station, and extending toward Stafford Court-house.

Col. DEVIN,S brigade of Gen. BUFORD's command had a severe fight this morning near Bealton Station.

The enemy showed only infantry to the front.

Among the killed in Gen. GREGG's command is Major C. F. TAGGART, Second Pennsylvania cavalry, formerly on Gen. KILPATRICK's Staff. Major TAGGART was shot through the knee, which was so badly shattered as to render amputation necessary. Death ensued a short time after the operation was performed. Deceased formerly resided in Philadelphia. He was considered the best swordsman in the army.

A frightful railroad accident occurred on Friday night on the Manassas Gap road, about five miles from the Junction. A train of seventeen cattle cars, loaded with 126 condemned horses, belonging to KILPATRICK's Cavalry, and accompanied by 126 troops as a guard, rushed in the dark, at the height of speed, around a curve upon an embankment, tore the rails from the old and rotten ties, and was sent headlong, as far back as the ninth car, down the steep. The soldiers placed for the trip on the rounded roofs were shaken and thrown off right and left as the cars thumped over the displaced ties and rails and fell under the moving train, or went down the embankment with the wreck. Seventy-five of them were maimed, some of whom have since died. Fifty horses were either killed outright or so injured that they had to be shot. The following is a list of the wounded:

Wm. H. McGlumpy, W. S. Webster, John Polkey, Sergt. E. J. Weyght, Wm. E. Childs, David Throp, David Fritz, S. Garrison, Jacob Grewart, Ames Noble, Corp. John More—all of the Eighteenth Pennsylvania cavalry; James Cavan, John Carlan, M. Nutting, Wm. Russell, S. W. Fousand, P. McMullen,—all of the Fifth New-York cavalry; Wm. Itheskel, Frank Vahen, of Second New-York cavalry, and one unknown man mortally wounded.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC,
WARRENTON, Va., Thursday, Oct. 22, 1863.

It can do possible harm to say that Gen. MEADE and Staff reached this place last night, and pitched tents on the Culpepper road, near where headquarters were located in the latter part of July last. This is the third time the headquarters of the army have been located in Warrenton within a year. Where the army is to go next I do not know, and would not tell if I did. Supplies for the army are now received vià Gainsville, which involves a land carriage of ten miles, and the probabilities are that no advance will be made, at least, until such time as a more convenient point for receiving supplies can be hit upon. Whether that will be Culpepper—which will involve the reconstruction of that portion of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad, recently destroyed by the enemy—or some other point, I do not believe has yet been decided upon. The opinion advanced by me in a letter during the early part of the recent movement, to the effect that LEE did not mean fight unless he could secure some great advantage of position, or find an opportunity to whip this army in detail, is now generally coincided with. That the enemy had some ulterior motive other than anything immediately connected with a northern campaign, is now also quite apparent. Whether or not it was from sheer desperation produced by the failing fortunes of the affairs of the so-called Southern Confederacy, which rendered apparent offensive operations necessary, and an effort to prevent an advance upon Richmond or a cover, as some profess to believe, for a further reinforcement of BRAGG, are among the questions to be answered in the future. The evidence is constantly accumulating that Richmond has been at the mercy of this army for the last two months, and is so now. Why the opportunity has not been improved, is one of the mysteries that puzzles all those who have nothing else with which to occupy their attention, and who do not profess to know the line of policy adopted for this army. Whatever might have been LEE's object in advancing as far as Warrenton, he was completely foiled and out-generaled by MEADE, so far as the actual movements were concerned. Twice LEE was offered battle: once on Monday of last week, on the right bank of the Rappahannock; and again on the following Wednesday, at Manassas, where the Second corps was attacked. These offers of battle were both declined, and the bulk of LEE's army was employed in destroying the Orange and Alexandria Railroad. Aside from the attack on the Second corps, the attack upon Gen. BUFORD's command, near Brentsville, the following day, while guarding the rear of the army-train—when quite a severe fight occurred, in which the division fully sustained its character as an efficient organization—and the one on KILPATRICK's cavalry, at and near Buckland's Mills, no others of consequence have been made by the enemy. There are those who believe that the destruction of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad indicates that JEFF. DAVIS proposes for the future to abandon to its fate all that portion of Virginia north of the Rappahannock, as well as by that act to retard the advance of the Union army. I do not feel competent to offer any opinion as to the plausibility of any of the theories advanced in this letter, but give them as advanced by others.

The army never was in better condition for a fight. The officers and men alike, during the last ten days, have been prompt and obedient, and obeyed all orders with alacrity. The whole of the enemy's infantry are far away from this across the Rappahannock River. Their cavalry, with the exception of some small detachments, are covering the rear of this retrograde movement.

PENNINGTON'S BATTERY.

While the army is resting, I will take advantage of the opportunity to notice a matter of general interest. There are but few people, I take it, who fully realize the amount of duty performed by the older troops in the field. Seeing yesterday the new and beautiful battle-flag of PENNINGTON's battery, attached to CUSTER's brigade, of KILPATRICK's cavalry division, completely covered with a list of battles in which it had been engaged, leaving no room upon it for several of the most recent, it occurred to me that a notice of the fact would be read with interest. What is now popularly known as PENNINGTON's battery is Horse Battery M, Second United States artillery. It has been present at every battle in which the Army of the Potomac has been engaged, and has been actively employed in thirty-one engagements, viz.: In 1861, Bull Run; 1862—Yorktown, May 4; Williamsburgh, May 5; Hanover Court-house, May 27; the seven days' fighting; Malvern Hill, July 1; do., Aug. 2; South Mountain, Sept. 13; Antietam, Sept. 17; Williamsport, Sept. 19; Martinsburgh, Oct. 2; Noland's Ford, Oct. 12; Philomont, Nov. 2; Union, Nov. 3; Upperville, Nov. 4; Barber's Cross Roads, Nov. 6; Amosville, Nov. 11. In 1863—STONEMAN's raid, May; Beverley Ford, June 9; Hanover, Penn., June 30; Huntertown, July 2; Gettysburgh, July 3; Monterey, July 4; Williamsport, (second time,) July 6; Boonsboro, July 8; Hagerstown, (second time,) Aug. 12; Falling Waters, July 14; Battle Mountain, July 24; Hagerstown, (first time,) Aug. 6; Brandy Station, Aug. 11; Buckland's Mills, Oct. 19. The battery was, in the early part of the war, commanded by Capt. HENRY BENSON, who was killed at Malvern Hill, and at one time by Brig.-Gen. HUNT, now Chief of Artillery with the Army of the Potomac, and at another by Lieut. PRESLEY O. CRAIG, son of Col. CRAIG, of Ordnance Department, who was killed in the first battle of Bull Run. Its present commander, First Lieut. PENNINGTON, with his assistants, have nobly sustained the reputation of the battery as one always ready for duty, and a terror in action to the enemy, because of the tenacity with which the battery is fought, and for the almost miraculous science displayed in throwing shot and shell. The other officers of the battery are Lieuts. C. A. WOODRUFF, WM. EGAN and FRANK B. HAMILTON. The latter officer has just been detailed as instructor at West Point. The guns are 3-inch rifled ordnance.

The new flag was made by TIFFANY, at a cost of $125, which amount was paid by a company subscription. The flag is the usual size of battle-flags, made of red satin, with a heavy gold bullion border. Above the crossed cannon, which are chenille work, is the letter of the battery, (M,) and "U. S." in needlework, and the vacant space on either side, above and below, is filled with a list of the actions in which the battery has been engaged, the names being neatly put in with the needle. The staff is mounted with silver, and is topped with the usual silver spear. The officers and men are all jealous of their hard-earned reputation, and rely upon it, no enemy of the Union will ever secure that flag without having to make a desperate fight for it.

The following order has been issued by the commander of the Second Brigade, First Division:

The Colonel commanding desires to express to the officers and men comprising the several regiments and the battery of this brigade, his gratification with the manner in which they have conducted themselves during the recent operations.

Their heroism in the charge, their steadiness under the heaviest artillery fire that decimated their ranks, their coolness, implicit obedience, and reliance upon their officers in the most critical situations, and last, but not least, their patience, and privations, and hardship, all combine to render them a body of men whom any officer might be proud to command.

The Colonel commanding well know the material of which his brigade was composed, and the reliance he might place in it, and he is proud to say that his confidence has not been misplaced. May their future career prove as bright as the first, and may the splendid reputation they have already earned in sixteen successive engagements, never be tarnished by any act unworthy of a soldier.

By command of Col. THOMAS C. DEVIN.
F. B. MAHNKEN, Lieut. and A. A. A. Gen.

The Second Brigade is composed of the Sixth and Ninth New-York and Seventeenth Pennsylvania regiments of cavalry, and VINCENT's battery. E. A. P.

THE REBEL RAID IN KENTUCKY.

Operations of the Guerrillas at Danville—Our Cavalry in Pursuit.

LOUISVILLE, Sunday, Oct. 25.

It is reported that there were 200 rebel cavalry at Harrodsburgh this morning.

Details from Danville say that in the rebel raid yesterday morning our quartermaster and commissary stores were burned, and several citizens robbed, by 75 guerrillas. After an hour and a half they went to Shelby's farm and stole 250 Government horses pastured there.

Capt. SIMPSON, Provost-Marshal of Stanford, with about twelve men, afterwards recaptured the horses, and four of the robbers. Our cavalry are in hot pursuit, and will probably capture or kill all of these robbers.

INTERESTING FROM NEW-ORLEANS

The Advance of Gen. Banks' Army on the Bayou Teche.

Destruction of Salt Works on Mississippi Sound.

Capture of Blockade-Runners off Galveston.

The steamship Morning Star, Capt. J. M. COURTENAY, arrived at this port on Saturday evening, from New-Orleans and Havana, having left the former port at 9 o'clock A. M., Oct. 17.

The steamships Roanoke, Eagle and Corsica were at Havana when the Morning Star left.

Dates from Vermillionville, headquarters Nineteenth and Thirteenth Army Corps, are up to 10 P. M. of the 16th. There had been skirmishing nearly every day for a week, with few casualties on our side. On the 16th we had six wounded; the enemy's loss was about the same. The enemy's force in this vicinity is estimated at 12,000, and it is ascertained that Gens. MONTIN and GREENE command them.

Quite extensive rebel salt works in the vicinity of Point Clear, in the Mississippi Sound, have been destroyed by detachments of sailors from the steamer Commodore and yacht Corypheus, and soldiers furnished for the purpose from Fort Pike.

Four splendid prize steamers, now lying at this port, are soon to be offered for sale, for the benefit of Government or private individuals. They are needed for war purposes or the reviving trade upon the Mississippi.

A beautiful stand of colors was presented on the 15th inst. to the First Louisiana Volunteers, by the officers and men of the Fourth District Police, of New Orleans. The occasion was one of great interest. Hon. T. J. DURANT made the presentation speech in behalf of the Police, to which Hon. E. H. DURELL, Acting Mayor of the City, responded in behalf of the regiment, which is at present in the field.

Gov. SHEPLEY has modified his order for the registration of legal voters in such a manner that all loyal citizens may be registered as voters upon taking the oath of allegiance to the United States, and making a declaration that such oath is taken voluntarily, and for the purpose of establishing a Government loyal to the United States.

OUR NEW-ORLEANS CORRESPONDENCE.

Distress among the City Poor—The Approaching Municipal Election—Prospective Expedition to Texas—Colored Schools—The Star Line of Steamers.

DEPARTMENT OF THE GULF,
NEW-ORLEANS, Saturday, Oct. 17, 1863.

The city is beginning to fill up, the late arrivals of the New-York steamers bringing large accessions of population. Houses are in good demand; few are offered for rent, while almost every other one has "furnished rooms to let" posted beside the door. What is to support the people to me is not plain. The distress among the poor is quite equal to that of last Winter, while they have not the relief then afforded them of liberal distribution of food and a large amount of employment on the public works. These resources are cut off entirely, and the suffering must be intense among the poor laboring classes, while I cannot discover any openings in business to profitably employ the intelligent local citizen or the enterprising adventurer from abroad. For all practical purposes Vicksburgh might be in the hands of the Confederates, so far as the commerce of the Mississippi is concerned, for between the burning of the river steamers and the restrictions on trade, very little produce comes here from the West, bacon of only a fair quality having sold here at 25 cents per pound, and other things in proportion. Coal has risen to $3 per bushel, and is scarce. No inducements are held out for trade "across the lake," so that little or no wood is brought in, and the unsatisfied demand for fuel will cause great distress. How the very poor are to get through the Winter is a mystery.

The agitation of having a city election grows more and more intense every day, and I cannot come to any other conclusion than that the experiment will have to be tried. It makes but little difference what may be the result; the demand is made, and if it is not gratified it will have the effect to cause discontent, particularly among the thorough-going Union men. The argument now is that the city has been under military-civil rule for near two years, and that the people now consider themselves competent to take care of their own interests. At all events they are willing to take the responsibility, and if they suffer by the change, they alone are the losers. The chairman of the committee that recently waited upon Gen. SHEPLEY, asking him to set an early day for the purpose of holding a municipal election, was gratified with the assurance from Gen. SHEPLEY, "that by sixty days the civil rights of New-Orleans would be restored to her citizens;" at least such was the idea received from Gen. SHEPLEY's remarks, as given to me by the chairman of the committee, a professional gentleman deservedly ranked among the first of our influential citizens. I have reason to believe that Mr. LINCOLN takes an interest in the proposed election. He deems that it would have a fine moral effect at home and abroad, to see the southern metropolis quietly resuming its place among the loyal cities of the Union, and setting the example of returning fidelity to the old government, and fealty to the old flag. The demonstration is one that would appeal most strongly to the people in Europe, and answer to confute the arguments of the foreign rebel emmissaries, that there is no loyalty in the South.

This evening, Gov. HAMILTON of Texas, at the earnest solicitation of our most prominent citizens, will make an address at the Lyceum Hall. A great deal of interest is felt to hear what he has to say, for we all remember the bitter disappointment he was subjected to nearly a year ago, when from this city he returned to the north with the consciousness that his bright anticipations of being able to return to Texas with a competent military force were frustrated. How long have been the intervening months to him no one can imagine, unless they are miles from home and family, and we all indulge the idea here, now that there is to be no disappointment this time, that he is not to be again mocked, but will have his heart's wishes gratified in an enterprise that has the sympathies of millions of loyal citizens. In this connection I would say, that for several weeks, there have been rumors in this city that a large force under Gen. BANKS was preparing to invade Texas. About two weeks ago Gen. BANKS left, as it was stated, to take command; certain it is, that he was away some six or eight days at Brashear and vicinity, when he suddenly returned to New Orleans. It is now asserted on reliable authority, that the invasion and occupation of Texas is still resolved upon, but that Gen. HAMILTON will accompany the expedition, and have control so far as to direct the route, manner, &c., leaving the execution to the proper military authorities. I trust that this is the case. The late disaster at Sabine Pass was greatly brought about by the ignorance of the leaders of the expedition regarding the depth of water in the Pass, there not being a boat connected with the expedition of shallow draught enough to get safely over the bar at the mouth of the river. Such mistakes as these and others too numerous to mention will be obviated by Gen. HAMILTON; he knows the country well, and he will call around him scouts, old hunters, and if necessary, old pilots, who will make no mistakes, and render it easy for the military to perform their work. I look upon the occupation of Texas as of the most vital importance, as one of the death blows of the rebellion, and mark my words, it will be accomplished with comparatively little trouble. The State is drained of its male population, and the interior is ripe for relief from the most odious tyranny that ever oppressed a people.

The movement made in New-Orleans in favor of colored schools, has succeeded beyond the most sanguine anticipations of all who wished them success. The teachers are all white, and include many of the most respectable and accomplished young ladies in the profession of teachers. Wherever a school has been opened it has been immediately crowded with scholars, and the good order and desire for instruction evinced by the pupils would be considered remarkably creditable to any public schools in the Union.

Incidentally, I would mention that on Friday evening a very brilliant entertainment came off in the dining-saloon of the Morning Star. This fine steamer brought out over two hundred and twenty-five passengers, more than half the number being ladies. So grateful are all for the manner they were treated, that there was a spontaneous movement made to give the gallant officer of the vessel, Capt. J. M. COURTNAY, a substantial testimonial, and he was notified that he would receive a handsome service of plate on the Friday evening alluded to. The pieces are four in number, and intrinsically valuable, but the reason of the presentation makes the owner deservedly proud of the memorial. The owners of the Star line are determined to make a success. There are but four well-established steamship companies at present in existence, viz: the Cunard, the Peninsula and Oriental Steam Navigation Company, the West India Mail, and the French line from Marseilles to the Bosphorus. And these lines have succeeded because of the strict discipline and thorough economy with which they are managed, at the same time affording to passengers every desirable comfort, and to shippers the greatest amount of facilities. To bring this about, a discipline has been introduced alike on every ship of the line, and as unyielding as if they were men-of-war. Capt. COURTNAY, who is a thorough and accomplished seaman, has inaugurated the new system, and the owners of the Star line are determined to establish a line of steamships between this city and New-Orleans that shall be as permanent as its European prototypes, and, if possible, superior in accommodations. The success so far as the Morning Star called forth the deserved testimonial, I have alluded to. T.

Texas Blockade Runners.

From the New-Orleans Era, Oct. 16.

The United States gunboat Tennessee, Lieut. Commanding WIGGINS, arrived yesterday from a cruise off Galveston. It appears that our gunboats in the Gulf have been after the rebel blockade-runners in an active manner. On the 12th inst., when about ten miles off San Luis Pass, a schooner was discovered in sight. Chase given immediately; and on coming up, she proved to be the rebel blockade-runner Friendship, bound from Havana to Matamoras. But, as she was evidently steering for Valasco, and was heavily laden with munitions of war, the Captain acknowledged he was a fair prize. The Friendship was taken in tow, and the Tennessee proceeded on her cruise. In half an hour more a sail was made about ten miles off. Chase was given; and on coming up within about three miles she was discovered to be on fire. A boat was sent out to board and try and save her; but when the launch came within about 400 yards, the schooner blew up with a terrific explosion. From the magnitude of the noise and concussion, it was thought the schooner was heavily laden with powder. The missiles from the destroyed vessel were scattered around on the sea for hundreds of yards. There were also a quantity of percussion caps included in the cargo, which was evidenced by the sound of small and continuous explosions heard after the grand flareup. The wreck proved to be the Jane, of Nassau, N. P.

The Cayuga also chased two schooners, which were fired by the rebels, and blown up.

Also, the United States blockading schooner Kittatinny flushed a schooner which the rebels succeeded in beaching and blowing up.

This closes the career of five venturesome vessels, whose owners believed in the "paper blockade" theory. They have come to grief. The Friendship was left at Quarantine by the Tennessee.

The Armament of Galveston.

An informant of the Era, who derived his facts from Mr. T. C. HAGGERY, just arrived from Matamoras, viâ Galveston and Sabine Pass, says: "The armament of Galveston consists of forty guns. The guns are mounted on cars leading to the fortifications, and so arranged as to be moved from one point to another, as contingencies may require, and taken from the island if necessary. The novelty of this manner of concentration of fire by the car arrangement is clever indeed, to say the least of it. The rebels firmly believe that their guns have sufficient calibre to repel any movement by our army or navy."

There are no troops now at Atlanta, all having gone to join WHEELER, STEPHEN D. LEE, RODDY and FORREST. The latter are in Gen. SHERMAN's immediate front, tearing up the railroad and telegraph. The former is reported south of the Tennessee River, between Tuscumbia and Decatur, 10,000 strong.

PRESIDENT LINCOLN'S LETTER.

The Missouri Troubles—A Reply to the Delegation and Instructions to Gen. Schofield.

We give below the text of the President's reply to the Missouri delegation, a summary of which was received from St. Louis by telegraph and published on Saturday last:

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5, 1863.

Hon. Charles D. Drake and others, Committee:

GENTLEMEN: Your original address, presented on the 30th ult., and the four supplementary ones presented on the 3d inst., have been carefully considered. I hope you will regard the other duties claiming my attention, together with the great length and importance of these documents, as constituting a sufficient apology for my not having responded sooner.

These papers, framed for a common object, consist of the things demanded, and the reasons for demanding them.

The things demanded are:

First—That Gen. SCHOFIELD shall be relieved, and Gen. BUTLER be appointed as Commander of the Military Department of Missouri.

Second—That the system of enrolled militia in Missouri may be broken up, and National forces substituted for it; and Third—That at elections, persons may not be allowed to vote who are not entitled by law to do so.

Among the reasons given, enough of suffering and wrong to Union men, is certainly, and I suppose, truly stated. Yet the whole case, as presented, fails to convince me that Gen. SCHOFIELD, or the enrolled militia, is responsible for that suffering and wrong. The whole can be explained on a more charitable, and, as I think, a more rational hypothesis.

We are in civil war. In such cases there always is a main question; but in this case that question is a perplexing compound—Union and Slavery. It thus becomes a question not of two sides merely, but of at least four sides, even among those who are for the Union, saying nothing of those who are against it. Thus, those who are for the Union with, but not without Slavery—those for it without but not with—those for it with or without, but prefer it with, and those for it with or without, but prefer it without.

Among these, again, is a subdivision of those who are for gradual, but not for immediate, and those who are for immediate, but not for gradual extinction of Slavery.

It is easy to conceive that all these shades of opinion and even more, may be sincerely entertained by honest and truthful men. Yet, all being for the Union, by reason of these differences, each will prefer a different way of sustaining the Union. At once, sincerity is questioned, and motives are assailed. Actual war coming, blood grows hot, and blood is spilled. Thought is forced from old channels into confusion. Deception breeds and thrives. Confidence dies, and universal suspicion reigns. Each man feels an impulse to kill his neighbor, lest he be killed by him. Revenge and retaliation follow. And all this, as before said, may be among honest men only. But this is not all. Every foul bird comes abroad, and every dirty reptile rises up. These add crime to confusion. Strong measures deemed indispensable but harsh at best, such men make worse by mal-administration. Murders for old grudges, and murders for pelf proceed under any cloak that will best cover for the occasion.

These causes amply account for what has occurred in Missouri, without ascribing it to the weakness or wickedness of any General. The newspaper files, those chroniclers of current events, will show that the evils now complained of, were quite as prevalent under FREMONT, HUNTER, HALLECK and CURTIS, as under SCHOFIELD. If the former had greater force opposed to them, they also had greater force with which to meet it. When the organized rebel army left the State, the main Federal force had to go also, leaving the Department Commander at home, relatively no stronger than before. Without disparaging any, I affirm with confidence, that no Commander of that Department has, in proportion to his means, done better than Gen. SCHOFIELD.

The first specific charge against Gen. SCHOFIELD is, that the enrolled militia was placed under his command, whereas it had not been placed under the command of Gen. CURTIS. The fact is, I believe, true; but you do not point out, nor can I conceive, how that did, or could, injure loyal men or the Union cause.

You charge that upon Gen. CURTIS being superseded by Gen. SCHOFIELD, FRANKLIN A. DICK was superseded by JAMES O. BROADHEAD as Provost-Marshal-General. No very specific showing is made as to how this did or could injure the Union cause. It recalls, however, the condition of things, as presented to me, which led to a change of commander for that department.

To restrain contraband intelligence and trade, a system of searches, seizures, permits and passes, had been introduced, I think, by Gen. FREMONT. When Gen. HALLECK came, he found and continued the system, and added an order, applicable to some parts of the State, to levy and collect contributions from noted rebels, to compensate losses, and relieve destitution caused by the rebellion. The action of Gen. FREMONT and Gen. HALLECK, as stated, constituted a sort of system which Gen. CURTIS found in full operation when he took command of the department. That there was a necessity for something of the sort was clear; but that it could only be justified by stern necessity, and that it was liable to great abuse in administration, was equally clear. Agents to execute it, contrary to the great prayer, were led into temptation. Some might, while others would not resist that temptation. It was not possible to hold any to a very strict accountability; and those yielding to the temptation, would sell permits and passes to those who would pay most, and most readily for them; and would seize property and collect levies in the aptest way to fill their own pockets. Money being the object, the man having money, whether loyal or disloyal, would be a victim. This practice doubtless existed to some extent, and it was a real additional evil, that it could be, and was plausibly charged to exist in greater extent than it did.

When Gen. CURTIS took command of the Department, Mr. DICK, against whom I never knew anything to allege, had general charge of this system. A controversy in regard to it rapidly grew into almost unmanageable proportions. One side ignored the necessity and magnified the evils of the system, while the other ignored the evils and magnified the necessity; and each bitterly assailed the other. I could not fail to see that the controversy enlarged in the same proportion as the professed Union men there distinctly took sides in two opposing political parties. I exhausted my wits, and very nearly my patience also, in efforts to convince both that the evils they charged on each other were inherent in the case, and could not be cured by giving either party a victory over the other.

Plainly, the irritating system was not to be perpetual; and it was plausibly urged that it could be modified at once with advantage. The case could scarcely be worse, and whether it could be made better could only be determined by a trial. In this view, and not to ban, or brand Gen. CURTIS, or to give a victory to any party, I made the change of Commander for the Department. I now learn that soon after this change Mr. DICK was removed, and that Mr. BROADHEAD, a gentleman of no less good character, was put in the place. The mere fact of this change is more distinctly complained of than is any conduct of the new officer, or other consequence of the change.

I gave the new commander no instructions as to the administration of the system mentioned, beyond what is contained in the private letter, afterward surreptitiously published, in which I directed him to act solely for the public good, and independently of both parties. Neither anything you have presented me, nor anything I have otherwise learned, has convinced me that he has been unfaithful to this charge.

Imbecility is urged as one cause for removing Gen. SCHOFIELD, and the late massacre at Lawrence, Kan., is pressed as evidence of that imbecility. To my mind that fact scarcely tends to prove the proposition. That massacre is only an example of what GRIERSON, JOHN MORGAN, and many others, might have repeatedly done on their respective raids, had they chose to incur the personal hazard, and possessed the fiendish hearts to do it.

The charge is made that Gen. SCHOFIELD, on purpose to protect the Lawrence murderers, would not allow them to be pursued into Missouri. While no punishment could be too sudden or too severe for those murderers, I am well satisfied that the preventing of the threatened remedial raid into Missouri was the only safe way to avoid an indiscriminate massacre there, including probably more innocent than guilty. Instead of condemning, I therefore approve what I understand Gen. SCHOFIELD did in that respect.

The charge that Gen. SCHOFIELD has purposely withheld protection from loyal people, and purposely facilitated the objects of the disloyal, are altogether beyond my power of belief. I do not arraign the veracity of gentlemen as to the facts complained of; but I do more than question the judgment which would infer that these facts occurred in accordance with the purposes of Gen. SCHOFIELD.

With my present views, I must decline to remove Gen. SCHOFIELD. In this I decide nothing against Gen. BUTLER. I sincerely wish it were convenient to assign him a suitable command.

In order to meet some existing evils, I have addressed a letter of instruction to Gen. SCHOFIELD, a copy of which I inclose to you. As to the "Enrolled Militia," I shall endeavor to ascertain, better than I now know, what is its exact value. Let me say now, however, that your proposal to substitute national force for the "Enrolled Militia," implies that, in your judgment, the latter is doing something which needs to be done; and if so, the proposition to throw that force away, and to supply its place by bringing other forces from the field where they are urgently needed, seems to me very extraordinary. Whence shall they come? Shall they be withdrawn from BANKS, or GRANT, or STEELE, or ROSECRANS?

Few things have been so grateful to my anxious feeling, as when, in June last, the local force in Missouri aided Gen. SCHOFIELD to so promptly send a large general force to the relief of Gen. GRANT, then investing Vicksburgh, and menaced from without by Gen. JOHNSTON. Was this all wrong? Should the Enrolled Militia then have been broken up, and Gen. HERON kept from GRANT, to police Missouri? So far from finding cause to object, I confess to a sympathy for whatever relieves our general force in Missouri, and allows it to serve elsewhere.

I therefore, as at present advised, cannot attempt the destruction of the Enrolled Militia of Missouri. I may add, that the force being under the national military control, it is also within the proclamation with regard to the habeas corpus.

I concur in the propriety of your request in regard to elections, and have, as you see, directed Gen. SCHOFIELD accordingly. I do not feel justified to enter upon the broad field you present in regard to the political differences between Radicals and Conservatives. From time to time I have done and said what appeared to me proper to do and say. The public knows it well. It obliges nobody to follow me, and I trust it obliges me to follow nobody. The Radicals and Conservatives each agree with me in some things and disagree in others. I could wish both to agree with me in all things; for then they would agree with each other, and would be too strong for any foe from any quarter. They, however, choose to do otherwise, and I do not question their right. I, too, shall do what seems to be my duty. I hold whoever commands in Missouri or elsewhere responsible to me, and not to either Radicals or Conservatives. It is my duty to hear all; but, at last, I must, within my sphere, judge what to do and what to forbear.

Your obedient servant,
A. LINCOLN.

INSTRUCTIONS TO GEN. SCHOFIELD.

[Copy.]
EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 1, 1863.

Gen. John M. Schofield:

There is no organized military force in avowed opposition to the General Government now in Missouri, and if any such shall reappear, your duty in regard to it will be too plain to require any special instruction. Still, the condition of things, both there and elsewhere, is such as to render it indispensable to maintain, for a time, the United States military establishment in that State, as well as to rely upon it for a fair contribution of support to that establishment generally. Your immediate duty in regard to Missouri now is to advance the efficiency of that establishment, and to so use it, as far as practicable, to compel the excited people there to let one another alone.

Under your recent order, which I have approved, you will only arrest individuals, and suppress assemblies or newspapers, when they may be working palpable injury to the military in your charge; and in no other case will you interfere with the expression of opinion in any form, or allow it to be interfered with violently by others. In this you have a discretion to exercise with great caution, calmness and forbearance.

With the matter of removing the inhabitants of certain counties en masse, and of removing certain individuals from time to time, who are supposed to be mischievous, I am not now interfering, but am leaving it to your own discretion.

Nor am I interfering with what may still seem to you to be necessary restrictions upon trade and intercourse. I think proper, however, to enjoin upon you the following: Allow no part of the military under your command to be engaged in either returning fugitive slaves, or in forcing or enticing slaves from their homes; and, so far as practicable, enforce the same forbearance upon the people.

Report to me your opinion upon the availability for good of the enrolled militia of the State. Allow no one to enlist colored troops, except upon orders from you, or from here through you.

Allow no one to assume the functions of confiscating property, under the law of Congress, or otherwise, except upon orders from here.

At elections see that those, and only those, are allowed to vote, who are entitled to do so by the laws of Missouri, including as of those laws the restriction laid by the Missouri Convention upon those who may have participated in the rebellion.

So far as practicable, you will, by means of your military force expel guerrillas, marauders and murderers, and all who are known to harbor, aid or abet them. But in like manner you will repress assumptions of unauthorized individuals to perform the same service, because under pretence of doing this they become marauders and murderers themselves.

To now restore peace, let the military obey orders; and those not of the military, leave each other alone, thus not breaking the peace themselves.

In giving the above directions, it is not intended to restrain you in other expedient and necessary matters not falling within their range.

Your obedient servant,
A. LINCOLN.

A CARD FROM GEN. JOHN COCHRANE.

His Position in 1861.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

A few days since there came to my notice an editorial article in the World newspaper, imputing to me sometime during the year 1861 the opinions expressed in the following resolution, viz.:

Resolved, That the rapid developments of the last five months have rendered the existence of the Southern Confederacy an historical fact; that, excepting by the free spontaneous act of the separate members composing it, its independent nationality can only be interfered with by violence; and that we are opposed to every form of menace, restraint or coercion, under whatsoever pretext of enforcing law, collecting revenue, or retaking property, which may lead to a conflict with the seceded States.

This resolution was one of a series offered at a meeting of the Mozart Hall organization by JOHN HACKETT, Esq., on the evening of the 4th of April, 1861, and which were at that time unanimously adopted. I presided on the occasion, and though I did not write, I voted for the resolutions. Those of the series immediately succeeding that above quoted are as follows, viz.:

Resolved, * * * * * * In order to stay the progress of disaster, that the requirements of those Slave States that have not yet seceded should be promptly fulfilled; and we anticipate the result of the Border State Convention to be held at Frankfort with confident reliance upon the justice of their proceedings, and that their claims will meet with a ready response in the North.

Resolved, That the time has come for patriotic citizens in the Northern States to forget dead issues and past political differences, and to rally in support of such a Union movement as shall secure the preservation of peace, and, if possible, pave the way, through the adoption of suitable amendments of the Constitution, for the reconstruction of the Republic; and that this organization will coöperate with all those who aim at effecting these results.

It will be noted that these opinions were expressed April 4, 1861, when many thought that the seceded States might still be won back by kindness, while violence and aggressive arms, it was thought, would make reunion impossible. Such men looked forward with hope to the Border State Convention then projected for Frankfort, for effecting the result. I, in common with very many Democrats, entertained these opinions, until the bombardment of Fort Sumter rudely dispelled my illusions of peace, and disclosed a new view of Federal relations in the light of exploding cannon at Charleston. War having been waged against the United States by rebels under their Confederate flag, I was then, and am now, for defending the Union by prosecuting the war effectively to a victorious close.

While engaged, I will briefly allude to a charge that I have heard made, that, on a visit to Richmond in March, 1861, I made a disunion speech. The Virginia State Convention was at the time holding its sessions at Richmond, and I went in a private capacity to learn, what I hoped, the success of the Union men in preventing the secession of the State. On my arrival I was importuned by the Union men to make a speech to the citizens of Richmond. I at length complied, and was assured by Hon. Mr. WILLIS, (since United States Senator,) and Hon. GEORGE SOMERS and others, of the benefit I had conferred on their cause. I have not heard that the speech was reported, nor have I seen a report of it. I believe that the charge that it was a disunion speech, was founded on a telegram to that effect to the New-York Tribune, upon the arbitrary assumption of some one of its correspondents at Richmond. While lying in the lines before Fredericksburgh last December, an officer in my brigade presented me with a scrap of a newspaper printed in that vicinity, and saying that when looking over old papers in a neighboring house, attracted by my name, he had read the contents and torn it from the body of the newspaper. The paragraph is as follows:

"Hon. JOHN COCHRANE, of New-York, is in Richmond, on a mission, it is said, of some sort, in connection with the proceedings of the Virginia Convention. On Wednesday evening he was serenaded and made a Union speech," &c.

I have only to add, that immediately after speaking I was invited to be present at a consultation of the Union men of the Convention, and at their urgent solicitation immediately returned to Washington with a request from them to the President, to Secretary SEWARD, and to Gen. SCOTT. They attached great consequence to a compliance with their request, for securing their ascendancy in the State Convention. I have reason to suppose that the request was granted. These facts are for the public.

Yours very respectfully,
JOHN COCHRANE.

NEW-YORK, Oct. 24, 1863.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

ATTACK UPON COLORED WOMEN.—On Saturday night last a colored girl, named HARRIET NEAL, was attacked at the entrance of Jackson's Court, corner of Front-street, by a gang of half-drunken fellows, and severely beaten, without any provocation whatever. She ran home, and a physician was called to her assistance. Her mother, JULIA NEAL, subsequently went out with a pail to get some water from the pump, when she was set upon by the same fellows, who kicked and beat her in the most brutal manner. She was escorted home by a colored man named ROBERT SMITH, who was attacked, and in defending himself inflicted a severe, though not dangerous wound upon MICHAEL SPELLMAN, one of the assailants, with a knife. SMITH, who is better known as "Friday," was arrested by Sergeant CRAFT of the Forty-second Precinct Police, and locked up to await examination.

MILITARY.—A meeting was held at the City Hall on Saturday night, for the purpose of taking preliminary measures toward raising volunteers to be attached to Gen. SPINOLA's division, which he is authorized to raise by the War Department. Gens. CROOKE, SPINOLA and other military men were present. The subject was discussed, and, as the attendance was small, it was finally determined to hold another meeting some time hence, to take further action. The expressed opinion appeared to be that, with proper exertions, the number of men required can be raised.

BROOKLYN CITY MORTALITY.—The total number of deaths in this city last week was 157; of which 28 were men, 32 women, and 97 children. The causes, as generalized, are as follows: Zymotic diseases, 17; nervous system, 36; heart and blood vessels, 11; respiratory organs, 41, (of which 27 were of consumption;) digestive organs, 33; still-born, 12; old age, 4; drowned, 2. Natives of the United States, 124; Ireland, 16; Germany, 10; England, 3; Norway and Sweden, 1; France, 2; unknown, 2.

BROOKLYN POLITICS.—The Democratic Convention nominated Mr. W. C. DEWITT as candidate for the Third Assembly District on Saturday night last. The district comprises the Fourth and Tenth Wards. The Republicans will hold a mass-meeting at the Academy of Music on Tuesday evening, on which occasion prominent gentlemen will make addresses. On the following evening the Democrats will hold a ratification meeting in the Park, in front of the City Hall.

SENTENCES IN THE KINGS COUNTY COURT OF SESSIONS.—The following persons, who pleaded guilty to indictments, were sentenced by the Court of Sessions on Saturday: WM. WILLIAMS, (colored,) for felonious assault, to the Penitentiary for six months. JAMES JAMIESON and JOHN SPENCER, jointly indicted for forgery, were arraigned. JAMIESON pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to State Prison for two years. SPENCER demanded a separate trial, and the case was set down for the 10th November.

Court Calendar—THIS DAY.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT.—Part II.—Adjourned to Friday, Oct. 30, 1863. Part III.—Calendar unchanged.

SUPERIOR COURT—DAY CALENDAR.—Part I.—Nos., 329, 2133, 2567, 2257, 1755, 2575, 1, 2705, 2549, 1047, 2945 2947, 2949, 2951, 2953. Part II.—Nos. 1734, 2404, 2336, 2570, 2524, 2550, 2574, 216, 2522, 1798, 2608, 261, 2612.

Personal.

—Among the personages who arrived in the Morning Star was Col. T. B. Thorpe. We believe he will make a short stay in this City and in Washington, and then return to the Crescent City, so greatly indebted to him for his patriotic services.

MONDAY, Oct. 26—A. M.

The Foreign Trade of the past week was moderately active. The Import entries are about the same as the corresponding week last year; but the withdrawals from bond of the previous importation are much heavier, and the Customs of the week reach nearly a million and a quarter. There was a reduction of Foreign Goods in bond during the month of September, of $4,420,588, and the probability is there will be nearly or quite the same reduction this month. The Export clearances of the week were smaller in both ordinary Domestic Produce and in Bullion than the same week last season. The stock of Bullion in Bank and in the Treasury office in this City holds remarkably steady, although the export demand for three weeks past amounted to $5,006,000. The following is the run of the total stock in Bank and Treasury, and the export clearances during these three weeks:

Week.	In Bank.	Treasury.	Total.	Export.
Oct. 10	$29,927,000	$8,000,000	$37,927,000	$2,556,000
Oct. 17	28,382,000	9,250,000	37,632,000	1,207,000
Oct 24	*27,000,000	10,500,000	37,500,000	1,243,000

* Estimated.

This time last year the Treasury had little or no Specie, the Customs being paid exclusively in the old Treasury Notes. The Banks then held $37,453,000 in Specie. Since then the exports from this port, say from the 23d of October, 1862, to the 24th of the same month, 1863, amount to $48,874,000, and the Specie left in Bank and in the Treasury Office in New-York is $37,500,000, and in the whole country outside of this sum $250,000,000 more. These facts we commend to the financial critic of the London Times, who, while bolstering a bogus Confederate Cotton loan in England, assumes as certain the early exhaustion of the precious metals in the loyal Atlantic and Pacific States of the Union!

The Sub-Treasury balance in legal tender Currency reached the maximum of about $26,000,000 on Friday night. The total of Gold and Currency then stood $36,524,894. On Saturday there was a reduction to $35,065,560. During the week the office received

From the Associated Banks	$3,500,000
For Customs	1,243,000
For the Popular Loan	8,781,500
From the Treasury at Louisville	1,750,000
Total	$15,274,500

These receipts are in excess of the disbursements of the week $6,974,289, of which about five millions in Gold and Legal Tender together will probably tell on the Bank Statement to be made up this afternoon. The course of the relative receipts and disbursements this week will, from present appearances, be in the opposite direction. The receipts for the Popular Loan are now so large and steady that it will not be needful to make further drafts on the recent Bank negotiation until the present accumulation of Legal Tender in the Treasury Office is greatly reduced. Could the revival in these popular subscriptions to the 5-20 years 6 ℘ cent. Bonds have been foreseen at the close of August, the negotiation with the Associated Banks of the three cities to advance $50,000,000 on the forthcoming 5 ℘ cent. Treasury Notes, would have been unnecessary.

The market for Money, in consequence of the foregoing movements at the Treasury, is advanced to 7 ℘ cent. to the Brokers. The demand was quite sharp on Friday at this rate, but less active on Saturday, when the disbursements from the Sub-Treasury were felt on the market, and lenders were disposed to avail of the full rate of interest.

The Stock Exchange ruled with considerable firmness through the week, and the upward speculation in the Railways was but partially checked by the change in money. The table below shows a pretty general advance on the New York and Western lines. The business was very large in New York Central, Cleveland & Pittsburg, and Michigan Southern. The price of Gold fluctuated violently on military and loan rumours and the Bull and Bear operations, in what is now known as the Gold Room of Gilpin's Exchange, corner William-street and Exchange-place. The Government securities were advanced 1@1½ per cent., the coupons of 1881 selling freely at 110½ per cent. The following is the general

The heavy short sales of Gold in the Gold Room of GILPIN's Exchange a few mornings ago, on the extravagant rumor of a Foreign Loan, fell due Saturday, the options having only three days to run. The deliveries to be made were out of proportion to the supply of Gold on sale, and the consequence was a stiff market on the purchases for cash. Some of the short sellers borrowed the Gold, free of interest, until Monday, and in some instances paid a bonus of ⅛@¼ ℘ cent. for the accommodation. The price of Gold at the Stock Exchange and in the Gold Room ranged 146@147 ℘ cent. The shipments of the day were only about half the sum total informally reported to be engaged on Friday. The amount which went out by all the steamers including $92,000 for Havana, is $398,000, and the whole export of the week is $1,242,673.

The market worked easier for Money at 7 ℘ cent. than on Friday, and most of the Brokers were accommodated before 2 o'clock with all they required.

The Stock Market is firmer and generally higher than on Friday for the Railways, and the demand at the Second Board was especially animated. The sales of Michigan Southern were very large at 89 ℘ cent. as against 85⅞@86 at the First Board on Friday. There was a further rise on Cleveland and Pittsburgh of 1½ ℘ cent., and the New-York roads were ½@¾ ℘ cent. higher than in the fore noon. In Governments, some further private sales of the coupons of 1881 were made at 110½, and of the registered at 108½ ℘ cent. The general market on the breaking up of the Second Board was firm.

At 4 o'clock the following prices were made in comparison with Friday night. Michigan Southern fell off 1 ℘ cent., and Gold rose to 147½:

HIDES—Receipts and sales have been light during the past week; prices have favored buyers. The movements in the principal kinds Messrs. H. D. HULL & Co. notice, thus: Dry Hides—The market has ruled inactive throughout the week, under a very limited demand from the trade and out-of-town buyers, and the business done has been on a very small scale. Holders for the most part are firm at a moderate concession in rates—equal to the decline in Gold and Exchange—but the trade, in view of their recent large purchases, and the news, received the latter part of the week, of large shipments from the River Platte, are unwilling to anticipate their wants, unless at a considerable reduction from present asking rates. Wet Salted Hides—For Domestic Slaughters the demand is only moderate at slightly reduced rates, which, however, holders for the most part refuse to accede to. The supply is small, but steadily increasing. Upper Leather Stock continues in fair request at unchanged prices, with a light supply on hand. For Calcutta Cows there is an active demand, from tanners and dealers, at full and steadily improving prices. The stock throughout the country is very light. Buffaloes are in better supply, but firmly held considerably above the views of buyers. The week's receipts have been 21,885 hides. Sales, 24,000 hides, including 1,000 Dry Montevideo, 20½ ℔s. 30c., cash, usual selection; 3,000 Dry Buenos Ayres, 25 ℔s., private terms; 7,500 Dry California, 22@23 ℔s., 30c.@30½c., cash; 5,300 Dry Matamoras 23 ℔s., 28c., cash; 1,500 Dry Para and Maranham, 28 ℔s., on private terms; 3,000 Dry Aspinwall, 18@21 ℔s., 28½c., cash; 300 Dry Maracaibo, 22 ℔s., 25c. cash, rejecting bad hides; 2,100 City and Country Slaughters, 55@70 ℔s., 11½c., @11¾c., cash, ℘ ℔. The stock on hand of Ox and Cow Hides is 154,300 (same time last year 387,500—year before, 311,200), and 130 bales.

HOPS—Continue in fair request, at 20c.@28c. for New, and 18c.@23c. for last year's crop, according to quality, ℘ ℔. The Cooperstown (N. Y.) Freeman's Journal says: "Hops of a good quality are held very firmly by the growers—but few of them, in this county, are willing to take less than 27c.@30c. Dealers are buying all the prime hops they can get at 20c. to 26c."

IRON—The Philadelphia North American says: "There is a firmer feeling in the market, but very little doing in Pig Metal, for the want of stock, most holders being sold up, and we quote Anthracite nominally at $36 for No. 2 and $37@$38 for No. 1, with sales at the highest figures, cash; 500 tons No. 2 Glendon also sold at $36 50, and 500 tons Grey Forge at $35, cash. Blooms are very scarce, and fine are held at $120 ℘ ton. Of Scotch Pig there is very little offering, and holders are asking $40 ℘ ton. Manufactured iron continues in good demand at the advance, and the mills generally are well off for orders."

LEATHER—Sole is quiet but steady to-day. Week's receipts, 48,000 sides.

LIME—Rockland is in more demand and up to $1 20 for Common and $1 50 for Lump, ℘ bbl.

Mexican on private terms; and 3,000 ℔s. Para at 70c. cash. Goat are more sought after by manufacturers at full and advancing prices. The stock is only moderate, comprising a few parcels of Mexican and Curacoa only, which are firmly held. Sales have been made of 5,000 Vera Cruz at 67½c.; 32 bales Buenos Ayres, 150@160 ℔s. avg., at 55c.; 17 bales do., 90@100 ℔s., at 46c.; 36 bales Payta, part at 55c. cash, and 20 bales Matamoras, 24 bales Cawnpore, and 23 bales Madras, on private terms.

SUGARS—Are in demand at former prices; sales since our last 450 hhds., including New-Orleans, at 14c., and Cuba at 11¾c.@13c.; and 50 boxes Havana at 13¾c.@14¼c., ℘ ℔.

WHISKY—Sales, to-day, 300 bbls., in lots, at 61½c.@62c. ℘ gallon.

WOOL—The market for all kinds opened tamely and heavily, in response to the depression in Gold and Exchange; but the demand improved during the week, especially for the finer qualities, and was quite active toward the close, partly on speculation, at full rates. The week's sales include 275,000 ℔s. domestic fleece at 68c.@82½c., the latter rate for Ohio; small lots of tub-washed do. do. at 82½c.@85c.; 85,000 ℔s. domestic pulled at 70c.@81c., mostly at 72c.@75c.; 60,000 ℔s. California at 28c.@45c.; 75,000 ℔s. Canadian fleece, chiefly at 70c.; 580 bales Cape at 39c.@45c., the latter rate for selected; 500 bales Mestizo, common to very choice, at 22c.@40c., the latter an extreme rate; 400 bales French on private terms; 67 bales Peruvian, part at 24c.; and 375 bales other foreign, about half African, on terms not made public. The Messrs. ATKINSON have decided on Thursday, Nov. 12, as the day on which they will sell at auction the 1,200 bales Spring-clip California Wool, referred to in our last ... In the Boston market, according to the Commercial Bulletin, there has been "less of the feverish excitement than has prevailed during the last few weeks, but without any abatement in the general firmness of tone. Coarse and medium Wools are, if anything, firmer than previously, and the tendency of these descriptions is upward, with an improved demand for the manufacture of heavy fabrics and army goods as the season advances. Nor is there much chance, apparently, for prices to rule lower in our Eastern markets, as the stocks here have been rapidly reduced of late, and are very sparingly renewed by receipts from the interior. Indeed, large lots are daily sold to arrive—and the time of arrival, moreover, is very uncertain, owing to the pressure of freight upon all the Western railroad lines, as consignments are just now being received from Western New-York for which bills of lading were forwarded early in September. The transactions in domestic for the week foot up some 800,000 ℔s. at the previous range of 72c.@85c for fleece, including 125,000 ℔s. New-York State at 73½c.@75c.; lots of fine Western at 80c.@82c., and of choice Ohio and Pennsylvania at 85c. The sales of pulled have been at 70c.@90c., including the grades of No. 1, super and extra, the outside figure for Billings; we note sales of 27,000 ℔s. choice California at 50c., and of several lots Canada at 65c.@75c., as to quality. In foreign, the sales have amounted to some 1,500 bales of all descriptions, including small lots of Cape at 40c.@43c., now held at 43c.@45c., and of Mestiza at 35c.@37c. for new, and 32c.@33c. for old clip; also, a quantity of Mediterranean at improved rates."....In Philadelphia, sales were made of 400,000 ℔s. domestic fleece, chiefly at 78c.@85c. for medium and tub-washed; and 160,000 ℔s. Mestiza on private terms, ℘ ℔..... The fourth and last series of this year's Liverpool low Wool sales was to have commenced on Wednesday, 21st inst. English Wools were to be sold on Tuesday, Nov. 3. The sale of sundries was to begin on Wednesday, Nov. 4. As English Wools were very firm, rather higher prices were expected. For next public sales in London, which were to begin toward the end of October or first week in November, the following quantities had arrived up to latest dates: 9,529 bales Sydney, 3,872 bales Port Phillip, 1,266 bales Van Dieman's Land, 149 bales Adelaide, 14,787 bales New-Zealand, 953 bales Swan River, 18,887 bales Cape. Total, 49,393 bales. The probable total to be offered will amount to 65,000 bales. In consequence of the good news regarding sales of Woolen goods from this country, and the scarcity in the English manufacturing districts, rather better prices than in July-August series were expected.

FREIGHTS—The market has been inactive to-day, at drooping rates. For Liverpool the engagements were confined to 250 bbls. Flour, on private terms; 100 tcs. LETTER NO. ONE.

Messrs. Carreño Bros. & Co.:

GENTLEMEN: On the 4th of July last, my son's hand was burnt in a most shocking manner, through the explosion of a pack of fireworks. I applied several balsams, and instead of causing any relief, the pain increased to such an extent that I entertained the greatest fear that he was going to lose his hand. I then remembered having heard spoken most favorably of the "Tropical Balsam" you prepare. I got a bottle of the same, and to my great and agreeable surprise, only half an hour after its application the pain was entirely gone, and on the next day there was scarcely a mark visible. Since that time I look upon your Balsam as the greatest blessing. In several cases of burns, cuts, &c., &c., I already have cured others with the most decided success. I can assure you, gentlemen, that on account of such rare merits, it cannot be long before its general use, as every one who shall have tested it is bound to proclaim it to be the most miraculous Balsam he ever knew of.

Wishing you all the success you do so fully deserve, I remain, gentlemen, your most obedient,

CHARLES VAN OECKELEN, No. 5 Carroll-place.

LETTER NO. TWO.

The following is from AMOS B. CORWINE, Esq., late American Consul at Panama:

NEW-ROCHELLE, N. Y., Oct. 22, 1863.

Messrs. Carreño Brothers & Co.:

GENTLEMEN: I take great pleasure in testifying to the efficacy of your "Tropical Balsam," having tried it on one of my sons who had been suffering from a severe cough for several weeks, which baffled all remedies, until I was advised to try the Balsam. This I did, resulting in curing the cough in three days. I look upon it as a most valuable and efficacious medicine.

Yours respectfully, AMOS B. CORWINE.

LETTER NO. THREE.

Messrs. Carreño Brothers & Co.:

GENTLEMEN: About three weeks ago my wife received a wound from the bite of a dog. She immediately dressed the wound with the "Tropical Balsam" you prepare, and which is already getting a very high reputation in this City. The hemorrhage stopped instantly; no inflammation nor suppuration ensued; and in only three days and without any other application but that of the said Balsam, she got entirely well. This surprising result has but confirmed the high idea I already entertained about your Balsam, which I consider to be a most valuable remedy, that nobody ought to dispense with, having always at hand.

I must also say that a few days before the accident above narrated, my said wife was instantaneously cured of a severe toothache with the only application of a piece of cotton, drenched in the same Balsam, on the tooth itself. I take much pleasure in stating these facts, and with great consideration am, gentlemen, your most obedient servant. P. C. DEVLIN, No. 20 Montgomery-st.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

The unexpected intelligence comes to us from our special correspondent with the Army of the Potomac, that the rebel army in force has again crossed the Rappahannock. This movement took place on Saturday morning, when a body of the enemy's infantry made the transit of the river on two pontoon bridges, near Rappahannock Station of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad, and driving back Gregg's cavalry division, which suffered severely, had a short engagement with two of our infantry brigades. These in turn seem to have fallen back, as the rebel force pressed forward seven or eight miles and attacked the cavalry under Gen. Diven, near Bealton Station. At this point we are told that the fighting was severe, but the result is not announced. Our correspondent says that the rebel left is now in position near Bealton Station, and stretches away in the direction of Stafford Court-house. What this movement means is at present a mystery. It is scarcely to be supposed that Lee will retrace the ground he has so recently abandoned, after the costly expenditures which his late experiment occasioned. In the fight near Bealton Station, Major Taggart, of the Second Pennsylvania cavalry, formerly a member of Gen. Kilpatrick's Staff, and reputed to have been the best swordsman in the army, was killed.

A Richmond Dispatch of the 24th inst., received at Fortress Monroe, says that the number of Union prisoners in that city on Friday last amounted to 12,000. A telegram from Charleston, dated the 23d, reports everything quiet, and Gen. Gillmore engaged in putting the finishing touches upon the fortifications. The Dispatch ominously concludes that "stormy times may be expected soon."

Gen. Grant has issued an order assuming command of the Military Division of the Mississippi, and announcing that his headquarters will be in the field.

Richmond papers of the 21st inst. admit the defeat of Gen. Lee at Bristoe Station by Gen. Warren, and say that their loss was about one thousand in killed and wounded. Rebel Gens. Cook, Posey and Kirkland were among their wounded. Lieut.-Gen. D. H. Hill has been removed from his command in the rebel Army of the Tennessee. Gen. Polk charges him with the cause of his failure to carry out Bragg's orders in the battle of Chickamauga.

The steamship Morning Star arrived last evening from New-Orleans, bringing dates from that city to the 17th instant. The journals contain very little news of army movements, but we learn that the advance of our forces had crossed the Vermillion River, and for a week prior to the 16th instant there had been considerabe skirmishing, without many casualties on either side. In the parishes of Plaquemine and Lafourche, planters were beginning to grind the sugar-cane, but in consequence of the disturbed condition of the labor market, the crop did not promise to be large. We find in the New-Orleans Era an interesting budget of news from Texas. Our squadron on the coast have had brisk employment in watching blockade-runners, and were successful in two or three instances in destroying and capturing vessels engaged in the contraband traffic. It is the intention of the Mexican Government to burn all the cotton at Matamoras, rather than permit it to fall into the hands of the French.

A shocking accident occurred on Friday night on the Manassas Railroad. A train, laden with condemned horses and guarded by 126 cavalrymen, was thrown off the track while going at a high rate of speed around a curve. Fifty horses were killed and seventy-five of the soldiers maimed, a few so seriously that they are not expected to survive their injuries.

GENERAL NEWS.

Notwithstanding the enormous proportion of men heretofore sent to the field by the State of Indiana, it is expected that its quota under the new call will be raised without a resort to draft. The Indianapolis Journal of Friday last says that the new regiments are filling up rapidly, and that some of them will be ready for the field in a month, if not sooner. There is not the same promise in all the districts, but in none is the work falling behind what was expected. The evident and acknowledged exhaustion of the rebellion, and the certainty that a large increase of our army will crush it almost without an effort, are impelling young men into the ranks that they may share the glory of the victory in the greatest civil war in the history of the world. This motive, in spite of all the weariness and distrust that slow movements and numerous blunders have made, is still strong, and still, as new regiments are called for, fills up the ranks, and sends out fresh energy and spirit to the fight. There are other influences at work, no doubt, but we have seen and heard enough of the feelings of our soldiers, not officers, but privates, to feel certain that many a heart enters the ranks with a warmer thought of the glory it is to gain than of the pay it may get. And while this is cherished we shall not abandon a jot of our confidence in the speedy raising of our new regiments, nor the certain defeat of the rebellion.

Gen. Rosecrans is expected to arrive in Cincinnati to-day, and preparations have been made by citizens to give him a grand reception. The Gazette says: "The wholesale charges circulated through the Eastern papers, with reference to Gen. Rosecrans, serve to intensify the feeling of the people in his behalf. There is the very best authority for saying that a portion, at least, of the charges in the Washington Chronicle, are infamous slanders; and this being so, it is fair to regard the whole as unreliable."

Dr. D. W. Wright, of Norfolk, the murderer of Lieut. Sanborn, was executed on Friday last.

The St. Louis News of Oct. 22 states that mountain men and others have been predicting one of the coldest Winters that we have had for years, from the fact that various animals have been making more than usual preparations for the Winter, and adds that it certainly looks that way to-day, with snow five or six inches deep on the ground in St. Louis.

The price of Gold left off 147⅛ per cent. on Saturday. Government Stocks were in demand. The Railway speculation firm, and generally upward. The market for Money worked easier on Friday at 7 per cent.

Present Features of the War—The Vital Point to the Rebels.

The rebels appreciate the value of Chattanooga quite as well as we do. They know that it is really the most important position now held by our armies—important in its military bearings, important in its bearing upon the question of supplies, and also in its political aspect. Look how it fronts upon Georgia and the Carolinas; see how it defends Tennessee and Kentucky—how it flanks Alabama and Mississippi; observe how, through Burnside's line, it furnishes us a back door entrance into Virginia itself. It is a central, a pivotal point; and our army can swing round upon it in such a way as to assail any part of the Confederacy as it now exists. If we continue to hold it, and to maintain a great army there, we could afford, so far as the purely military view of the case is concerned, to take our leisure, and take our own way by which to proceed to the ultimate demolition of the Confederate power.

Jeff. Davis has just been on a visit to Bragg's army, fronting Chattanooga; and since he has examined affairs on the spot, he seems to be still of the opinion he had before he went there, that it is necessary to drive our army back though it requires every soldier in the South to do it. He proclaimed the fact in a formal address he made to Bragg's army; and after leaving the latter he delivered a speech at Selma, Ala., in which he reiterated it. At Selma, he urged the non-conscripts of Alabama to "gather their guns and go to the rescue, being confident that in this way Rosecrans could be crushed to dust;" and he further declared that, "in fact, he believed the defeat of Rosecrans would practically end the war." In his address to Bragg's army, he characterized them as "defenders of the heart of our territory," and told them that "our case depends on you." In all this, Jeff. Davis was not exaggerating, nor speaking foolishly. To his remark that the defeat of Rosecrans would "practically end the war," he might have added with far greater truth that the success of Rosecrans' army would "practically end the war."

Looking at the subject from the rebel side, and appreciating the position as the rebels appreciate it, we do not see the ground of Jeff. Davis' confidence that he can crush Rosecrans' army to dust. Chattanooga was fought for at Chickamauga on the 19th and 20th of last month, and the rebels lost it. Since then they have made several efforts to flank the position, but in each instance they have failed. They failed as against the army of Rosecrans alone, unaided by any of the other great forces that existed in Tennessee or near its border. Now that a change in the command of the Department has been effected, by which the forces of Thomas, of Hooker, of Burnside, of Sherman, and other bodies in West Tennessee, will all either combine or cooperate under Gen. Grant for the achievement of the one great object, the rebel prospect looks infinitely less hopeful than before. Rosecrans had not sixty thousand effectives in the late action, while Bragg had probably fifteen thousand more than that number. We suppose the battle reduced Bragg's force to something less than sixty thousand; but Gen. Grant can certainly without difficulty bring into the next action, or concentrate for the next forward movement, twice sixty thousand soldiers; and we do not believe that it is in the power of the confederacy to reinforce Gen. Bragg to any such extent. We do not doubt that a quick concentration and a speedy advance by Gen. Grant would result in the retreat of Bragg and would enable us to seize Atlanta—which being done, Gen. Grant could afford to rest his army till spring, and then resume his march to Augusta, on the Savannah river; and this certainly would solve the confederate problem, Charleston and all.

We have news this morning that a part of Lee's army has again crossed to this side of the Rappahannock, and has had a couple of brisk fights with a part of the Army of the Potomac. We confess that the full object of these late marches and countermarches of Lee's army is not very palpable. For some purpose or other, he keeps up a show of activity, and menaces our lines. The most unlikely thing, after his late desolating of the country between Warrenton and the Rapidan, is another serious advance on his part; but all we can do is to watch events there, satisfied that in Gen. Meade, Lee has an opponent not less skilful and courageous than himself.

Certain we are that Jeff. Davis spoke the truth when he asserted that the vital point was in the West, and it is sure enough that he will not neglect his interests there. But the uniting of all our Western armies, or rather the command of all our Western armies, puts things on such a fine footing, that we entertain no fear though all the "non-conscripts of Alabama" and the whole Confederacy "gather their guns and go to Bragg's rescue."

Foreign Relations of the Confederacy.—Jeff. Davis, as he was returning from his visit to Bragg's army, made a speech at Selma, Ala., on the 18th inst., and we find a telegraphic abstract of it in our Southern files. In the course of it he touched upon the foreign relations of the Confederacy, and remarked: "Self-reliance and energy is now our only duty; we should not look to Europe for aid, for such is not to be expected now." So Jeff. Davis has at last given up what has been one of his fondest hopes ever since the rebellion broke out—hope of aid from abroad. We do not doubt that, in saying this, Jeff. "spoke by the book," or rather by the dispatch, and that it was based upon information derived from his emissaries in Europe. Even on the outside, Confederate foreign relations look less hopeful now than ever before. The withdrawal of Mason from London; the dismissal of British Consuls from the Confederacy; the seizure of the rebel rams; the coldness of Napoleon, and the almost impossibility of his aiding the rebels; these and other known facts are not cheerful. But Jeff. Davis knows still other things than these, and when he dashes the hope of the rebels for foreign aid, we may be sure that he had reason for doing so.

The State Election.

The canvass in this State promises the most satisfactory results. It is carried on everywhere with the utmost vigor on the part of the Union men, and from every section of the State we have assurances of substantial gains for the Union cause. We have not yet heard of a single county which is likely to increase the Democratic vote over that given last Fall; while in New-York alone it is confidently believed the Union ticket will gain quite enough to overcome the majority by which Gov. Seymour was elected a year ago.

The fact is every day makes it more and more clear to the people of the State that the only way in which the rebellion can be quelled is by sustaining the Government in prosecuting the war against it. The time for subterfuges and delusions is past. Whatever men may think of details in the policy of the Administration, they are coming to realize the fact that it is only through it that the war can be closed, and that every obstacle thrown in its way, everything done to array the people against it, detracts just so much from its energy and force, and postpones the day of final victory. It is universally felt, moreover, that the attitude of this State during the past year has been one of hostility to the Government, rather than of support and aid. Gov. Seymour has used the power and influence of his position to excite distrust of the Administration, rather than to arouse popular feeling in its support. The spirit and tone of his official action has been against the Government, rather than in its favor. The people feel the injustice of this, and begin to see its mischievous practical effect.

We shall be very much surprised if New-York does not follow the lead of Pennsylvania and Ohio, and give renewed assurance to the Government that it may rely with confidence on the support of the people in the adoption of the most vigorous measures for the prosecution of the war.

Our City Judiciary—The Duty of Honest Citizens.

There will be next week a capital opportunity for those patriots who are anxious to serve their country without going to the war, to do so in a very effectual manner, by the vote they will cast in electing the judges for the Superior, Common Pleas, and Marine Courts. We therefore beg respectfully to remind our readers that next to fighting for one's country comes the duty of keeping the country worth fighting for. It is a very fine thing to shoulder a musket and march to the field, but it is almost as fine to use one's influence for the protection of the life, property, and reputation of one's fellow-citizens at home; and this can in no way be done so effectually as by maintaining the respectability, independence, purity, and learning of the judiciary.

No amount of loud-mouthed defence of the war, or support of the Administration or denunciation of the South, or of England or France, will convince the world that a man has a particle of real regard for the safety, honor or welfare of the nation, who either by voting or by not voting, aids or abets in the election of such a person as McCunn to the bench of the Superior Court. It is in reality of more importance that our Judges should be upright, able men, than that the South should be conquered. The North might be a great power if the South were irretrievably lost; but with a bench filled with McCunns, the very foundations of society would be shaken, and we should soon certainly cease not simply to be a nation, but to be a civilized community. The very fact of the election of such men to such offices would prove that decency and self respect had died out amongst us, and that we were so steeped in corruption as to have lost even the instinct of self preservation.

It may not make much difference to a large number of New-Yorkers, or it may be impossible to convince them that it makes any difference, who is Senator, or Supervisor, or members of Assembly; but there is no one, however indifferent he may be to politics generally, who must not feel, if he has a suit of decent clothing, and has a hope to have family or friends, that it makes all the difference in life what manner of men they are who sit on our judgment seats. We trust, therefore, that those whom nothing else can induce to vote, will be at least induced to do so next week, for the purpose of preserving to the bench whatever of independence and respectability the elective system has still left us. McCunn, after having degraded and disgraced the City Judgeship—first by the mere fact of his filling it, and then by his having endeavored to use it for the succor and deliverance of the worst band of criminals that has ever shocked and outraged a Christian community—has been nominated by the clique of jugglers who now pretend to represent "the Democracy" of this City, for the office of Judge of the Superior Court, in the place of Judge Bosworth. We will not, until we see it, believe his election possible. We will not believe that a majority of the citizens of New-York will allow this to occur within four months after the July riots, when they can prevent it by depositing their ballots in the box. We are satisfied that even such men will leave their beds sooner than suffer this crying shame to come to pass. We are not dogs that we should do this thing.

There are other considerations which call also loudly for the attention of our citizens in this election of Judges. The three Judges whom it is now proposed by political trickery to oust from their seats, Messrs. Hilton, Bosworth and McCarthy, are honest men and good lawyers. They have, we believe, performed their duties ably and uprightly, and to the perfect satisfaction of the Bar and of the public. They therefore have a right to be reëlected, and it is our interest as well as our duty to reëlect them. The curse of our system of electing Judges is that, by making the term of office short, and making its renewal dependent upon the dodges and intrigues of "managers" and caucuses, it places in the Judge's way the strongest conceivable temptation to prostitute his office for the purpose of securing the favor of the dominant or more unscrupulous of the political parties. We have, in short, embodied in our Judicial "system" every one of the defects which were charged in the first draft of the Declaration of Independence against that imposed on us by George III., as amongst the outrages too intolerable to be borne. We cannot change the system until the Constitution shall be revised, but we can in the meantime, by our manner of working it, deprive it of its most obnoxious features. We can make the Judges independent, and remove all temptation out of their paths, by continuing them in office during good behavior. Every one of them who fills the term properly and efficiently, ought to be sure of staying in his place as long as he pleases and does his duty. There is no other way of retaining good Judges, and there is no other way of inducing honorable men to accept the office at all. It is a disgrace to us all that any Judge who has ever enjoyed the honor of sitting on the bench of this great City, without the shadow of a stain on his reputation, should have to beg his continuance in office, hat in hand, from the wretched rabble of Mozart and Tammany Halls. The public is bound to shield him from such degredation by every means within their reach. And we earnestly commend this matter to their attention, not as a party matter, nor yet as a political matter, but as a moral question of the first rank, which lies close to the foundations of civil society, for it concerns the very safety and sanctity of family and property.

Ireland and its Condition—Its Wrongs and Rights.

The condition of Ireland is again attracting unusual attention in England. It may be summed up by saying that emigration is steadily increasing, population steadily diminishing; that the grain crops are decreasing every year, as are also the green crops; that pasturage, fallen woods, plantations, bog and waste land are spreading over a wider and wider area. In other words, there is every possible indication of steady decline. Men are disappearing, and wealth is not accumulating; on the contrary, the sources of wealth are fast drying up.

It has been so long the habit of the exponents of Irish grievances to ascribe all the misfortunes of the country to the want of local self-government, that it is now difficult to get people to believe that the island would not flow with milk and honey if there were a Parliament sitting in College Green. And yet there is every reason in the world to believe that it would do nothing of the kind. The grand question is not, after all, where the Parliament sits, as what class of men sit in it; and if it was composed in Dublin solely of landlords and their relations, as it is in London, the Irish peasant would not find his condition one iota improved by the repeal of the Union.

And that such would be the case we have not a shadow of doubt. Democratic ideas have at this moment far less real hold on the popular mind in Ireland than in England. The position of the "landed interest" is far more powerful, partly owing to the terrible power which has for centuries been lodged in its hands, and partly owing to the fact that it is not, as in England, counterbalanced by a wealthy, energetic and ambitious middle class. There is in Ireland no rich trader between the landlord and the peasant; and the great majority of Irish members in both Houses of Parliament constitute the most powerful, bitter and determined opponents of all change in the laws regulating the tenure of land. The same men would sit in an Irish House of Commons in Dublin, and the change of scene would certainly effect no change in their passions, or prejudices, or interests.

It is the land-tenure, after all, which is the real root of Irish distress, and until it is changed—until the cultivator has some stronger hold on the soil than is at present accorded him by the aristocracy of his own country—unquestionably the most selfish, bigoted, and unenlightened in western Europe—if Brian Boru himself were on an Irish throne, Ireland would still decay; the people fly from it, cultivation disappear, and cattle and sheep take possession of its soil. There are, no doubt, differences between the condition of the Irish peasantry of to-day and that of the French peasant in the seventeenth century. They are protected by the common law from arbitrary violence; but it is to-day as true of them as it was in the days of Mme. de Sevigne and Jacques Bonhomme, that they are "gens taillables et corvéable sans merci ni miséricorde." They may be taxed without mercy or limit by a body of utterly irresponsible superiors. The power which an Irish landlord possesses of raising rent, without regard to the value of the farmer's improvements, and with the penalty of eviction in his hands, trifling as it may seem here, where land abounds, or in England, where farmers are mostly men of capital, and are protected by immemorial custom, which in England is stronger than law, from extortion or oppression, is, in a country like Ireland, without capital, without trade, without industry, where the land is everything, as terrible a weapon as ever was placed in man's hands for the ruin and persecution of his fellows. With what effect it is used, the agricultural statistics of the country testify only too clearly.

Where relief is to come from in future, it is hard to say. It will certainly not be from the assembling in Dublin, if such a thing were possible or probable, of an Irish Parliament composed of the collection of jobbers, peculators, adventurers, Tories and Orangemen which Ireland would send to Westminster Hall. They have just as little affection for the tenantry, and rather less, than Englishmen of the same class, and they have not an Englishman's respect for public opinion; and there is very little doubt that it is of precisely the same materials as these their local legislature would be composed. No radical change will, in all probability, ever come about till either the old population has totally disappeared, or until a great revolution has been wrought in its character and habits by the progress of education. It is now so broken down by centuries of servitude and poverty, that it has lost the power of combination, the capacity for calm and steady resistance, which is the first requisite to bring about any grand political or social change. The existing Land Laws of Ireland could not be maintained for a day against Englishmen. The whole country would rise against them with all the power of educated strength. The poor Irish, unorganized, untrained, with little knowledge either of their rights or duties or capacities, take to shooting landlords from behind hedges, or else delivering speeches on mountain tops, which are so full of sound, fury and exaggeration, that they produce no impression either at home or abroad, and only serve to increase the contempt and determination of their oppressors.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

WAR GAZETTE.

[OFFICIAL.]

The following circulars have been issued:

War Department,
Provost-Marshal-General's Office,
Washington, Oct. 20, 1863.

Circular No. 95.—Regiments now in the service, which reënlist as veteran volunteers under the provisions of General Orders Nos. 191 and 305, current series, from the Adjutant-General's Office, will be credited to the States, and, as far as practicable, to the Congressional Districts and sub-districts to which they belong.

JAMES B. FRY,
Provost-Marshal-General.

War Department,
Provost-Marshal General's Office,
Washington, Oct. 19, 1863.

Circular No. 94.—The attention of Provost-Marshals is especially called to the provisions of paragraph 37, of the Regulations for the government of the Bureau of the Provost-Marshal-General of the United States. When a man, arrested as a deserter by the officers or employes of this Bureau, claims that he is not a deserter by reason of having been discharged from the service, or of never having been in the army, he shall not be forwarded from the Provost-Marshal's headquarters to any military post, until he shall have been afforded a fair and ample opportunity to present proof in support of his claim. It is made the especial duty of Provost-Marshals to investigate all such cases carefully, thoroughly and promptly. The evidence in regard to them can usually be obtained from official records, upon application direct to the Provost-Marshal. In all doubtful cases the matter shall be at once reported to the Acting Assistant Provost-Marshal-General of the State, for his orders, as to holding or discharging the man.

Provost-Marshal-General.

DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, Sunday, Oct. 25.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT TO A CATTLE TRAIN.

A train of seventeen cattle cars, containing about 126 condemned horses and a guard of 126 troopers, all belonging to Gen. Kilpatrick's Third cavalry division, started from Gainesville, at 11 o'clock on Friday night, and when four miles on the road to Alexandria, and on a curve, the train going at a very rapid rate, several of the track ties gave way, precipitating eight of the cars from the track and down a steep embankment. Twenty of the guard were injured, four or five dangerously, but, strange to say, no one was killed. Many of the horses were killed instantly, and others received such injuries as to render the shooting of them necessary. Capt. Dorning, of the Second New-York cavalry, who had charge of the horses, escaped without injury. Dr. Hackley, Surgeon-in-Chief of the Third division of cavalry, Drs. Copehart and Kingston, with a sufficient corps of assistants, were promptly on the ground, rendering all necessary assistance to the wounded.

THE CROPS.

The following is a summary statement of the amount of the crops of 1862 and 1863, both Summer and Fall, of the loyal States, as returned to and estimated by the Agricultural Department, and furnished the Press generally by the Commissioner of Agriculture in advance of his monthly report for September:

The answers returned to the circulars for September, of the Agricultural Department, asking information of the condition of the crops, are given in tenths, above or below the crop of 1862. During the Summer, the Department made an estimate of the amount of the crop of 1862. This estimate was based on the census returns of 1860. As the crop of 1859, which was taken by the census, was below an average, and that of 1862, much above, allowance was made for this difference, varying in its amount according as the agriculture of each State required. The general per cent. increase of each State was added. One-fourth of the amount given in the census was struck off from the returns for Missouri and Kentucky, on account of the war. Thus calculated, the crops of 1862 were made the basis for estimating those of 1863, according to the tenths, increase or decrease, of each State, as reported by the correspondents of the Department.

The Summer crops—wheat, rye, barley and oats—for 1862 and 1863, were as follows:

	Wheat, bush.	Rye, bush.	Barley, bush.	Oats, bush.
Total, 1863...	191,068,239	20,798,287	16,760,597	174,858,167
Total, 1862...	189,993,500	21,254,956	17,781,461	172,520,997
	*1,074,739	†456,669	†1,020,867	*2,337,170

*Increase. †Decrease.

The Fall crops of corn, buckwheat and potatoes for 1862 and 1863 were as follows:

	Corn, bu.	Buckwheat, bu.	Potatoes, bu.
Total 1862..........	586,704,474	18,722,995	113,533,118
Total 1863..........	449,163,894	17,193,233	97,870,035
Decrease......	137,540,580	1,529,762	15,663,083

The monthly report of the Department for September shows that the amount of wheat and flour exported to all countries for the year ending Sept. 1, 1863, is 40,686,308 bushels, and of corn, 11,680,343 bushels. The domestic consumption, then, is as follows:

	Bushels.
Wheat crop for 1862	189,993,500
Exported	40,686,308
Domestic consumption	149,307,192
Corn crop for 1862	586,704,474
Exported	11,680,342
Domestic consumption	575,024,132

These exports and domestic consumption exhibit the relative magnitude of the foreign and domestic markets.

The Report examines the probable foreign demand for breadstuffs during 1864, and shows that the principal portion of our exports of breadstuffs is purchased in the English markets; that the average annual importations of all grains with Great Britain and Ireland are 94,278,949 American bushels; but in 1860 the importation was 135,386,434 bushels; and in 1861, 142,529,106 bushels; that it was as great in 1862, but not so large in 1863; that from the present condition of the crops in England, the demand for 1864 would return to the general average, rather than to the great amount since 1860; that the home demand for 1864 would be at least equal to that for 1863, and that the condition of the currency would remain as favorable as it now is; that hence the amounts of wheat and corn for 1864 would be as follows:

	Bushels.
Wheat crop of 1863	191,068,239
Domestic consumption	149,307,192
Leaving for export	41,761,047
Corn crop for 1863	449,163,894
Domestic consumption	575,024,132
Leaving a deficiency of	125,860,238

Which must be provided for by greater economy in feeding, and a greater proportional consumption of wheat.

The number of stock hogs is about the same as in 1862, and about 5 per cent. below a general average in condition. These were early turned on the frosted corn.

The buckwheat crop is not so much injured as was generally supposed, because most of it is produced in the States of New-York, New-Jersey and Pennsylvania, where the frosts of Aug. 30 and Sept. 18 did not injure the crops materially.

The tobacco crop of 1863 is larger than that of last year by nearly fifty millions of pounds, although the frosts in the Western States were very injurious to it. But about one-half of the crop there had been gathered before the frost of Sept. 18, and 75 per cent. more ground had been planted than in 1862.

The hay crop of 1862 is estimated at 21,603,645 tons; that of 1863 at 19,980,482 tons—a decrease of 1,623,163 tons. Its quality is good.

The meteorological division of the report is much larger than usual, giving a full description of the frosts of Aug. 30 and Sept. 18.

The monthly report for September is much the best yet issued, and will soon be distributed.

THE FRENCH INVASION OF MEXICO.

The Blockade of Mexican Ports.

Washington, Sunday, Oct. 25.

The State Department has been officially informed that from and after the 6th of September last an effective blockade will be established and maintained by the French naval forces of all the ports, rivers, havens, roads, creeks, &c., along the coasts of Mexico, which are not occupied by the French troops, and which still acknowledge the authority of Juarez, from the Lagoon ten leagues south of Matamoras to and including Campeache, between 25° 22' north, 99° 54' west, and 19° 52' north, 92° 50' west of the meridian of Paris; and that friendly and neutral vessels will be allowed the period of 25 days to complete their lading and leave the blockaded places. The points excepted from blockade are Tampico, Vera Cruz, Alvarado, Coatzacoalcos, Tabasco and Carmen. All vessels attempting to violate the said blockade will be proceeded against in conformity with international law and the treaties in force with neutral Powers.

FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

Success of the Union Judiciary Ticket—Destructive Fire.

San Francisco, Saturday, Oct. 24.

The business portion of the town of Big Oak Flat, Tuolumne County, was destroyed by fire on the 20th. Loss about $50,000.

The Union Judiciary ticket was elected by a decided majority, compared with the gubernatorial election of September. Thirteen Union District Judges and one Democratic Independent are elected. Union Judges are chosen in both the San Francisco districts.

Gov. Bramlette not Coming.

Buffalo, Sunday, Oct. 25.

Gov. Bramlette, of Kentucky, will not fulfill his appointments made with the Democratic Committee, of this State, for the reasons contained in the following dispatch:

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 24, 1863.

Dean Richmond, Chairman Democratic Committee:

We now have a formidable raid upon us. Our banks are robbed and towns sacked within forty miles of the capital. No man can think of quitting his post while this continues.

Call for Volunteers in Illinois—Cold Weather in the West.

St. Louis, Sunday, Oct. 25.

Gov. Yates, of Illinois, has issued a proclamation for volunteers under the President's last call.

The weather continues quite cold. The snow of Thursday last has not yet disappeared.

FROM THE SOUTH.

THE PRESIDENT IN THE SOUTH.

Selma, Ala., Oct. 18, 1863.

President Davis arrived here this evening, and was welcomed by the citizens en masse. An immense crowd gathered in front of the hotel. The President congratulated the people on meeting them under such favorable circumstances, and spoke in glowing terms of the gallantry of Alabamians on every battle-field. He said if the non-conscripts of Alabama would gather their guns and go to the rescue, by guarding Courtland and other points, thereby relieving regular soldiers who are now from necessity discharging that sort of duty, such blows would be dealt the enemy as he would find it difficult to recover from. In this way most effective aid could be given the gallant men and officers who are carrying out the plans of the noble Longstreet, under the supervision of the heroic Bragg.

In this way the President was confident that Rosecrans could be crushed to dust. It was only by force of arms that the Yankees could be brought to reason, and their plans for our subjugation defeated. Self-reliance and energy were now our duty. We should not look to Europe for aid, for such is not to be expected now. Our only alternative was to sustain ourselves with renewed energy and determination, and a little more sacrifice upon the part of the people, and the President firmly believed that next Spring would see the invader driven from our borders. Then farmers, who are now refugees, could return to their families, and pursue their business undisturbed as heretofore. In fact, he believed that the defeat of Rosecrans would practically end the war.

THE RECENT VIRGINIA CAMPAIGN.

A correspondent of the Richmond Enquirer writing from Bristoe Station, Oct. 15, says:

It is certainly true that Meade has managed his retreat most orderly, and that he has saved his stores, and lost but few men. Though I think it equally true that the Yankee army is considerably scared. And it is a fact that Birney did not sleep a wink Tuesday night, while encamped at Greenwich, in Prince William County, but paced the floor of the house in which his headquarters were almost incessantly, repeatedly consulting his watch and sending couriers to the pickets to know if they saw any rebels.

There has been heavy firing all day to-day, and even into night, some distance below; but at this writing I have not learned the nature of it, though it is supposed to be an engagement between some portion of our cavalry and the enemy.

Our boys have been sadly disappointed in their expectations of captures, and from more than one of them you can hear such an expression as this: If Jackson has been along, we would have gotten everything we wanted. Alas! we have no Jackson now. Our boys, however, make the Yankees whom they capture pull off their shoes, which they at once convert to their own use.

THE NOTORIOUS RUCKER AGAIN ESCAPES.

We learn by a telegram from Danville that Dr. W. P. Rucker, the notorious traitor, renegade, horse-thief and murderer, who was sent from Botetourt to the Pittsylvania County jail for safe keeping and trial, made his escape on Sunday night, and was at large. It was evident he had received outside aid to effect his liberation.

Rucker had escaped several times before, and was retaken, but it is not likely he will be caught within the Confederate lines again. Justice in his case has been so long delayed and tampered with that there is now scarcely a hope of its ever being meted out to him.

DISMISSAL OF BRITISH CONSULS.

The Charleston Courier states that in accordance with the action of the President, as lately reported in our columns, official notice has been given through the proper channels to the gentleman lately acting as British Consul for that port, that his official functions had ceased, and could not be longer recognized. This action meets very general approval, on grounds of self-respect and public policy.

In reference to the Consuls thus relieved different questions may arise as to their private and personal position after this official demise. In some cases these Consuls, before or during their official career, have acquired and exercised the rights of citizenship. This was the case in Charleston.

BRIG.-GEN. SOULE.

Hon. Pierre Soule has been appointed Brigadier-General, and ordered to take the field. The appointment is likely to be of great service. Gen. Soule has unbounded popularity in Louisiana, and will attract, no doubt, a great many recruits from that noble but oppressed State.

Another Track Across Broadway.—Yesterday workmen were busy in Broadway building the track of one of the "gridirons" from Canal-street to and into Lispenard. The road takes a figure "S" shape in its short encroachment on the great highway. The work was done in a marvelously short space of time, and after all was completed it was covered over with dirt, so that the existence of a track no one would have dreamed of.

Union Home and School.

To-day the Union Home and School, for which such generous efforts have been making, opens at No. 446 Broadway. The proceeds are for the benefit of the Union Home and School for the education and maintenance of the children of our volunteers. That it will be most liberally patronized, cannot be doubted.

THE ROOMS OF THE LOYAL LEAGUE.—It may not be generally known that the rooms of the Loyal National League, No. 813 Broadway, are open all day and up to a late hour in the evening, free to all visitors. Every loyal publication is to be found there, and it is a place where information as well as pleasure is found in attendance.

AGAIN NEW TESTIMONY.

READ.

HARLEM, July 30, 1863.

I have been deaf for over TWENTY-FIVE YEARS, and Dr. VON EISENBERG operated on both of my ears without the slightest pain—a thing that I could not believe could be done. I now hear well, and feel as I never felt for the last twenty years. The dexterity and skill with which the operation was performed evince the highest practical ability. I hear perfectly. It is now over a month since the operation, and I continue to feel as well as ever.

CATARRH CURED.

NEW-YORK, Aug. 23, 1863.

I have been suffering for the last three years from a severe Catarrh, with a continual dullness in my head, a tightness across my chest, a weight over my eyes, which were weak, watery and very painful. My nostrils were continually obstructed with a pouring of fluid. I have had frequent sneezing, hoarseness of my voice, generally attended with spitting, often with a fullness of my throat, together with a soreness and a dropping. Dr. VON EISENBERG has cured me of all these disagreeable sufferings. I now feel a new life. The treatment of Dr. VON EISENBERG is as skillful as it is successful; it is impossible to overrate the benefit I have received at his hands. I heartily recommend any one suffering like myself to place themselves under Dr. VON EISENBERG's care, with a certainty of being speedily cured. I give this with gratitude and pleasure. I cannot forbear again saying that my voice, which was hoarse and thick when I applied to Dr. VON EISENBERG, is now clear and good. Indeed, I feel abundantly satisfied.

JAMES LITTLE,
No. 245 7th-st., New-York.

NEW-YORK, Sept. 8.

I have been suffering for years past from a severe Catarrh, with a great heaviness over my eyes, with a severe depression, great uneasiness, and pain in my head, great difficulty in breathing, and a continual accumulation in my nostrils, which gave me restless nights for several years. I have consulted several physicians, who pronounced me to be consumptive. What I suffered for so long a time is indescribable. My system was entirely disarranged and greatly debilitated. I not only felt weak, but I had a cloud continually before my eyes, and my ears were so affected that I was threatened with a total loss of hearing. I must say, I think, I was guided by Providence to come to Dr. Von Eisenberg, who not only cured me of my Catarrh by removing an astonishing quantity of disagreeable matter from my head, but he restored me to perfect health, a blessing I have not enjoyed for many years. Now I enjoy a good night's rest, and pursue my business with comfort. I must acknowledge that Dr. Von Eisenberg's mild and scientific treatment for Catarrh deserves the highest commendation, as the principle which directs his system of curing Catarrh is such as to render success certain.

JAMES FURLONG, No. 656 2d-av.

No. 131 ALLEN-ST., NEW-YORK, Feb. 9, 1863.

I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a disagreeable discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.

I consulted Dr. Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principle which directs his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain.

JOHN TAYLOR.

NEW-YORK, July 19, 1863.

This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with congested blood, relieving her instantaneously, and all without pain. It is with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.

CARROLL J. POST, No. 28 South-st.

SIGHT RESTORED.

JUNE 25, 1863.

My daughter brought me to Dr. VON EISENBERG almost completely blind in both eyes. I could not bear the pain nor the light. I am completely cured by Dr. VON EISENBERG, and called now to express my gratitude to the Doctor for his skill and unremitting attention, by which I recovered one of the most precious senses to me after being deprived of it for four years. It is only due to Dr. VON EISENBERG to state that I have tried several physicians in vain. I shall be happy to bear personal testimony to Dr. VON EISENBERG's unrivaled success to any lady or gentleman who will call on me.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.

READ.

NEW-YORK, March 20, 1863.

"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull heaviness in the head. I felt my nose completely stopped up accompanied by continual soreness of the throat, the chills stealing over me with occasional hot flushes, a great tightness of the chest and pain, so much so, that every one thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with but little hope of a cure. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg with a certainty of being cured."

By
JOHN BOURNE, C. E.
New and Revised Edition.
1 vol. 12mo., illustrated. Cloth, $2 00.

In offering to the American public a reprint of a work on the Steam Engine so deservedly successful, and so long considered standard, the Publishers have not thought it necessary that it should be an exact copy of the English edition. There were some details in which they thought it could be improved and better adapted to the use of American Engineers. On this account the size of the page has been increased to a full 12mo. to admit of larger illustrations, which, in the English edition, are often on too small a scale, and some of the illustrations themselves have been supplied by others equally applicable, more recent, and to us more familiar examples. The first part of Chapter XII devoted in the English edition to English portable and fixed agricultural engines, in this edition gives place entirely to illustrations from American practice, of steam engines as applied to different purposes, and of appliances and machines necessary to them. But with the exception of some of the illustrations and the description of them, and the correction of a few typographical errors, this edition is a faithful transcript of the last English edition.

From the army hospital—the bloody battle field—the mansion of the rich and humble abode of the poor—from the office and the sacred desk—from the mountain top, distant valleys and far-off islands of the ocean—from every nook and corner of the civilized world—is pouring in the evidence of the astonishing effects of DRAKE'S PLANTATION BITTERS. Thousands upon thousands of letters like the following may be seen at our office.

REEDSBURY, Wis., Sept. 16, 1863.

* * * I have been in the army hospitals fourteen months—speechless and nearly dead. At Alton, Ill., they gave me a bottle of Plantation Bitters. * * * Three bottles restored my speech and cured me. * * *

SOUTH WARSAW, Ohio, July 28, 1863.

* * * One young man, who had been sick and not out of the house for two years with Scrofula and Erysipelas, after paying the doctors over $150 without benefit, has been cured by ten bottles of your Bitters.

EDWARD WOUNALL.

The following is from the Manager of the Union Home School for the Children of Volunteers:

HAVEMEYER MANSION, 57TH-ST.,
NEW-YORK, Aug. 2, 1863.

DR. DRAKE: Your wonderful Plantation Bitters have been given to some of our little children suffering from weakness and weak lungs with most happy effect. One little girl, in particular, with pains in the head, loss of appetite, and daily wasting consumption, on whom all medical skill had been exhausted, has been entirely restored. We commenced with but a teaspoonful of Bitters a day. Her appetite increased, strength and health followed.

Respectfully, MRS. O. M. DEVOE.

* * * I owe much to you, for I verily believe the Plantation Bitters have saved my life.

REV. W. H. WAGGONER, Madrid, N. Y.

* * * Thou wilt send me two bottles more of thy Plantation Bitters. My wife has been greatly benefited by their use. Thy friend,

ASA CURRIN, Philadelphia, Penn.

* * * I have been a great sufferer from Dyspepsia, and had to abandon preaching. * * * The Plantation Bitters have cured me.

REV. J. S. CATHORN, Rochester, N. Y.

* * * Send us twenty-four dozen more of your Plantation Bitters, the popularity of which are daily increasing with the guests of our house.

SYKES, CHADWICK & CO.,
Proprietors of Willard's Hotel, Washington, D. C.

* * * I have given the Plantation Bitters to hundreds of our disabled soldiers with the most astonishing effect.

G. W. D. ANDREWS,
Superintendent Soldiers' Home, Cincinnati, Ohio.

* * * The Plantation Bitters have cured me of liver complaint of which I was laid up prostrate and had to abandon my business.

H. B. KINGSLEY, Cleveland, Ohio.

* * * The Plantation Bitters have cured me of a derangement of the kidneys and urinary organs that has distressed me for years. It acts like a charm.

C. C. MOORE,
Agent for Colgate & Co., No. 254 Broadway.

&c., &c., &c., &c., &c.

The Plantation Bitters make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya Bark, Wintergreen, Sassafras, Roots, Herbs, &c., all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix Rum.

S. T.—1860.—X.

Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try them.

They are recommended by the highest medical authorities, and are warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure and harmless.

NOTICE.—Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters in bulk or by the gallon, is a swindler and imposter. We only put it up in our log-cabin bottle. Beware of bottles refilled with imitation deleterious stuff, for which several persons are already in prison. No. 35 William-st., New-York, Oct. 15, 1863.

This Company will hold their ninth regular Monthly Auction on WEDNESDAY, the 28th day of October, 1863, at 12 o'clock noon, at the rooms now used as the Merchants' Exchange, Nos. 26 and 28 Exchange-place, corner of William-st., at which time they will offer, by SIMEON DRAPER, Auctioneer,

TWENTY-FIVE THOUSAND TONS OF FRESH MINED SCRANTON COAL,

The sale will be positive. Each lot put up will be sold to the highest bidder, no bids in any form whatever, being made for account of or on behalf of the Company.

Fifty cents per ton, in bankable funds, to be paid at the time and place of sale, and the balance, in like funds, on receiving the order for the coal, which must be called for within ten days thereafter and the coal taken away within thirty days from the day of sale, unless navigation is obstructed. Buyers who wish, however, can have an additional thirty days for taking the delivery of their purchases, by making a further deposit of fifty cents per ton, within the ten days above specified. Interest, at 7 per cent. per annum, will in such case be charged on the balance, from the time stipulated for payment until paid; and twenty-five cents per ton to cover the expense of stocking the coal—both to be paid on delivery of order.

The other conditions of sale will be substantially those hitherto accepted by all purchasers, by private contract, of coal deliverable at Elizabethport, so far as applicable. The coal will be delivered direct from the cars on their arrival from the mines, when practicable—otherwise from the stock. PRIVATE DISEASES CURED IN THE shortest possible time, by Dr. WARD & CO., No. 50 Lispenard-st., near Broadway, without the use of Mercury, loss of time or change of diet. Dr. WARD, from the hospitals of London, Paris and Edinburgh, is the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for diseases of a private character. In 28 years' practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others combined. I can and will cure you in less time and expense than any one can or will, and those who have been robbed of their money and health, call; it will take but little money and time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhœa or Syphilis cured in a few days, without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from Impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks. Permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance failing to receive prompt treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to Dr. WARD, No 50 Lispenard-st., the only place. Call, send for a circular, or write.

SURE CURE—BY DR. POWERS, SUCCESSfully consulted with Dr. WARD, No. 50 Lispenard-st. Conducted on the plan of the Hospital des Veneriens, Paris, where those afflicted with any form of private disease can receive prompt treatment, without risk or exposure, viz.: Syphilis, gonorrhœa gleet, strictures, ulcers, tumors, cancers, secondary and constitutional syphilis, diseases of the kidneys, &c., &c. Thirty years of extensive practice, exclusively devoted to the treatment of those complaints enable us to effect cures in cases where others of less experience have failed. Dr Powers' Essence of Life restores the vigor of youth in four weeks. This marvelous agent restores manhood to the most shattered constitution—physical disqualifications, impediments to marriage, thereby speedily cured. The men to consult, Drs. Ward and Powers, the champions and kings of venereal diseases, possessing the most certain, speedy and only effectual remedies in the world, guarantee a perfect cure, or no charge, in from one to three days. Established in 1810. Those who have [illegible] their [illegible] are never without. Send for a circular. To Ladies.—Dr. Powers' Periodical Drops are a safe and certain remedy for monthly irregularities. The above remedies sent by mail. The afflicted should read their circular. Postage free, on receipt of a stamp. Cures warranted.

Latest Researches in Physiology; European Hospital Practice; Quacks, their Recipes and Specifics; the Author's unequaled Paris and London Treatment, &c. Mailed free, for $1, closely sealed. All who would avoid unsuccessful and barbarous treatment with Mercury, Copaiba, Injections, Cauterizations, Quack Specifics, Antidotes, Instruments, &c., should purchase the original work of E. WARNER, No. 1 Vesey; or consult the Doctor, No. 647 Broadway, (up stairs,) New-York, from 12 M. to 6 P. M., daily.

Strictures of the urethra, impotency, seminal weaknesses, &c., treated on the most scientific principles. N. B.—As a proof of Dr. C.'s qualifications, he would call special attention to his diplomas, which can be seen in his office.

THE RUSSIANS AT NIAGARA FALLS.

Amusing Incidents—Enthusiastic People—Fast Traveling—Rain Falls and Water Falls—How the Muscovites Enjoyed the Trip.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

NIAGARA FALLS, Saturday, Oct. 24, 1863.

The Russians have at last reached the shrine of their and the world's pilgrimage. They have seen Niagara Falls; they have been baptized in its spray; they have been lulled through a night's slumbers by its never-ceasing roar, and henceforth they can roam the world with the dignified consciousness of having witnessed Nature's greatest performance, and of not being any longer astonished at her minor tricks. It might be supposed that the old cataract, on being gazed at for the first time by [illegible] hundred Muscovite eyes, would take some heed of their presence; but she didn't. She turned neither to the right nor left, but rushed heedlessly along in her mad career. What careth she for Muscovite or Turk—for Caucasian, Mongolian, Ethiopian, or what not? She demands the world's homage, and returns no thanks. She is "not for a day, but for all time." She was created long anterior to any of the human varieties, and she will "still live" when all of them are blended in one happy family, like unto that which tickleth the children in the fifth story of BARNUM's Museum.

The excursion reached the Falls at twenty minutes past five last evening, in a dripping rain. This (the rain) was considered an untoward circumstance by some, but I think it was just the thing. People come here to see falling water; why should they object to a few drops falling from Heaven to mingle with the Falls below? The cataract is old, but the rain is older, and should have the preference. Besides, the contrast is worth something, and adds to the sublimity. "The rain falleth gently, but the cataract roareth in the fullness of its rage."

They came, as I said, in the rain; but whence did they come? This reminds me that I left them, in my last epistle, at Utica, and like a veracious historian, as I am, I must go back there and resume the thread of my narrative. It won't do for an historian to plunge in medias res. VIRGIL, to be sure, did it, but VIRGIL was only a poet. He never traveled with the Russians; he didn't even know a Russian. His knowledge of "outside barbarians," like that of his brother HORACE, only extended to the "far distant Gaetulians and Dacians, and them that drank from the waters of the Rhone." At Utica, then, we will start, and it is a good place to start from, and not at all "pent up," like that Utica whereof the poet sang. Soon after the excursion left this beautiful city the weather, which before had been bright and sunny, suddenly changed to clouds and rain. This, however, did not dampen the enthusiasm of the people along the route, nor abate their curiosity to get a sight at the "Rooshans." At Oneida, Syracuse, Clyde, Rochester, and every other place where the train was to stop, the people were assembled in large throngs at the depots, awaiting the arrival of the distinguished visitors, and prepared to give them a cheering reception. The train, however, only stopped five minutes at each place, which was apparently a great disappointment to the people; for, some how or other, at each of the large towns the people had got the impression that there was to be the place where the excursion was to stop for dinner. This prevailing idea was amusingly illustrated at Oneida. A corpulent old lady, with "spectacles on nose," who had elbowed her way through the crowd to get a peep at the navy caps through the windows of the cars, was astonished to see the train move off almost as soon as it had come to a halt, and could not refrain from giving vent to her surprise and mortification. "La, me!" she exclaimed, "if they ain't a going off without giving them a chance to get something to eat." The good old soul could not deem it possible that the "Rooshans" could pass through the town of Oneida without stopping for "something to eat." She reminded me of my poor old grandmother, who would never allow me to go a five-mile journey without stuffing my pockets with apples and pound-cake. My friend BUNGAY, of the Tribune, consoled the old lady by telling her they had a lunch-car in the train. "Have they?" said she; "well, I am glad of it;" and, as the cars moved on, her voice died away upon the Russian cars like the last sigh of a famished cat.

Notwithstanding the enthusiastic demonstrations of the people along the route, which appeared to be properly appreciated and responded to, as far as was possible, by the great majority of the Russian officers, none of them succeeded in eliciting any public notice from Admiral LESOVSKY until the arrival of the excursion in Rochester. The Admiral occupied a seat in the front passenger car, next to the lunch car, and being dressed in citizens clothes, with the exception of a white edged navy cap which was like all the rest, the people were unable to distinguish him from the others. At Rochester, however, the crowd was so great and the greetings so boisterous and enthusiastic that the Admiral could not resist the temptation to thrust his head out of the window and bow his thanks. But he had cause to repent his temerity, for he was immediately seized by the hands and arms by a dozen citizens at once, and, with his body half through the windows and bent over, was compelled to go through a process of handshaking for several minutes. It was a wonder that they did not pull the old hero through the window to the pavement, but they didn't—probably because some of his friends held him by his coat-tail. His affability and good nature did not, however, desert him at this rude treatment, but he took it as it was meant, and laughed heartily with the rest at the ludicrousness of the scene. While this was going on a crowd of young men and boys rushed into the rear cars, and marched to and fro in single file, inspecting the Russians on either side as though they were so many neat cattle exposed for sale in their stalls. Nor were they at all backward or soto voce in their comments upon the strangers. "Wall," exclaimed one of the rougher sort, "they don't amount to much after all—only dwarfs with Dutch faces." "Don't speak so blunt, nor so loud," rejoined a better dressed youth—"draw it milder—say diminutive in stature, Hollandish in visage." "Who the d—l supposed you could talk Rooshan," replied the rough; "where did you learn it?" I tried to divert the attention of the boys away from the Russians to the Tribune correspondent, by representing him as the private secretary of the Admiral, who could speak English, but it was no go. He broke down on the first attempt to Russianize his mother tongue, and the plain-spoken youth, discovering the joke, left him with—"Get out! you aint no Rooshan; you aint got the lingo, nor the Dutch face, nor the cap."

Soon after leaving Rochester the party were invited to a magnificent entertainment in the lunch-car, a description of which, with its novel and sometimes comical accompaniments, incident to a standee dinner in a railroad-car running at 45 miles the hour, would require more space than the TIMES has at its disposal. Suffice it to say that it was one among the many proofs of the liberality with which the Central Railroad carried out the details of their part of the great Russian excursion, and that it added new laurels to the brow of that well-known public caterer, Mr. PECK, of Albany.

From Rochester to the Falls there were no special incidents worthy of mention aside from the usual public demonstrations, like those that had preceded, and which were continued at all the stopping-places on the line of the road. There are one or two facts, however, connected with the entire through trip, which I am specially requested to mention as interesting to railroad men everywhere. The entire trip from Albany to the Falls, a distance of 306 miles, was accomplished in less than 9 hours, and with a single engine. This I am assured is a feat never before performed. The name of the engineer who did it is REUBEN ALLEN. It is safe to say that REUBEN is bound to make his mark in the world, even if he does drive a "one-horse" team. I would respectfully suggest his name to the Emperor NICHOLAS for the position of Chief Engineer on the Imperial Railway from St. Petersburgh to Moscow. With his fast pony, the "E. CORNING," he would drive the officers of the entire Russian navy from one capital to the other in less time than that "nautical circumstance," as the London Times calls the Russian fleet in New-York harbor, could sail from the Battery to Sandy Hook.

On the arrival of the excursionists at the Falls it was decided to run the train across the river to the Canada side, in order that the party might get their first glimpse of the cataract from the Suspension Bridge. Due notice was given to the Russian guests, and as the cars entered on the bridge they all gathered at the windows on the left, and on the platforms of the cars, to get a view of the great Western wonder of which they had heard so much. A distance of two miles, combined with the muggy atmosphere and the dripping rain, was not so favorable to a first view of the Falls as might have been desired; but it was nevertheless sufficient to excite the astonishment of our Russian friends, who gave vent to their feelings in the most voluble and emphatic Russian accents which I have heard from their lips since their arrival in America. With the exception of the Admiral, who was surrounded by Americans, they all talked together in Russian; for men, when excited, never use other than their native tongue. The cars passed slowly over the bridge and, after stopping a moment on the Canada side, returned back at the same pace. On getting a second view of the cataract, they began to make inquiries of the Americans present with regard to this or that feature of the scene. The immense volume of spray that rises over the tops of the trees in the bend of the river appeared to be a puzzle to some of them. A "Middie," standing by me, says: "Look at ze shmoke." "That is spray, my friend; it rises from the falls." "Is it spuray, you call him? Yaw! spuray! smoke! ze same ting; dey be firing mooch cannon dere." No further explanation was ventured, for it was felt to be useless to attempt to convince a Russian who had been saluted with cannon at every move he made, after reaching America, that Niagara was not also letting off a volley in honor of his arrival.

Returning to the American side, the train ran up the branch road to the hotels near the Falls. The entire party had been provided with rooms at the Cataract House, where they arrived at 6 P. M., and each one registered his own name on the hotel journal. These names furnished an amusing study for the guests of the Cataract House during the entire evening. I should judge that every name was committed to memory and rehearsed during the night, for the prevailing terminations appeared in abundant profusion at the breakfast table this morning. The Russians occupied one table, the hotel boarders another. Curiosity led me to the latter, and I found there, as I expected, the most amusement. "Good morning, Miss Smithski—how is your health this morning?" "Please pass me the pepperdoff, Mr. Brownski." "A little musterdoff, if you please." "Waiter, have you any gingerhoff?" "A small piece of beefsteakski." "A little more hot coffsky, John," &c., &c.

Apropos of coffee I notice the Russians seldom drink it; they prefer tea even in the morning. I suppose this is owing to the influence of their neighbors, the Celestials.

Immediately after breakfast the Russians hurried off to get a view of the Falls. Admiral LISOVSKY, accompanied by most of the officers of the fleet, first rode in carriages over to Goat Island. Returning from there they took the cars down the river to Lewiston to view the beautiful scenery on the banks, and take a look at BROCK's monument. They were accompanied by President KING, Senator PRUYN, Adjt.-Gen. SPRAGUE, Capt. BALDWIN, Mr. SKIDMORE and several railroad officers. On their return from Lewiston this afternoon they distributed themselves in various directions where favorite views of the cataract were to be had. They may now be seen at almost every point of interest—at Goat Island, at the Ferry, at Table Rock, at Suspension Bridge, at the rapids above and at the whirlpool below. Some have gone over to Canada to see their Crimean friends, the Britishers, and look at the Falls through John Bull's eye-glasses. I see some of them, from my window, loitering about the streets, and I have no doubt others may be found at my Dutch friend's, who keeps a lager-bier saloon around the corner. It is not every Russian, no more than every American, who cares about the sublime, and there are, no doubt, men in the party who vote Niagara a "bore," and who will swear that the water-sport in the palace-grounds of St. Petersburgh beats it all hollow.

The weather looked dubious this morning, but it has now cleared off cold, and promises to be pleasant for some time to come. The party will remain here until Monday morning, when they will take the Erie Road for Elmira, stopping there over night, and reaching New-York Tuesday afternoon.

The mail train from here leaves at 4½ P. M., about as untimely an hour as could well be devised for correspondents of New-York morning newspapers. Fortunately, the news from here, as a general thing, will keep. If any of the Russians should jump over the Falls I will let you know by telegraph. MIX.

AMUSEMENTS.

The past week was an exceedingly brilliant one at all our places of amusement. It was difficult, indeed, for the critic to do full justice to the feast that was provided for him. Especially was this the case as regards music. Four performances were given at the Academy of Music, all of them fashionably attended and eminently successful. No one was sick—not even Signor BELLINI. This gentleman, in fact, came out particularly strong in "Macbeth," and all his sins of omission and commission were forgiven unto him in consequence thereof. He has a superb voice, and is a fair actor. There is probably not another baritone in the country who could play the leading rôle so well. It is to this cause, we apprehend, that the long shelving of the opera is to be ascribed. The music is agreeable, and much superior to the ordinary run of the Verdi tap. Madame MEDORI sings and acts with great fire. Signor LOTTI obtained a success, and in the last act received an encore for the romanza. "Macbeth" is the success of the season. Every one seems to be astonished with its excellence, and it will be repeated to-night. On Friday Mr. MARETZEK played FLOTOW's "Martha." Miss KELLOGG—whose position now is so well assured that she is past being overtopped by any prima donna in the country—was the Lady Henriette. The performance was light, graceful and romantic—precisely what it ought to be. There is a peculiar and indefinable charm about this young lady's style, which in such characters is irresistible. Signor BIACHI, who heretofore has come to us in a flowing beard and a tottering gait, was a lithesome and goodlooking Plunket. He sang well. Mlle. SULZER was the Nancy. Her voice lacks character, and is heard disadvantageously in concerted pieces, but she is a good and reliable artiste.

On Thursday night the Academy was surrendered up to the drama. Miss CUSHMAN and Mr. BOOTH played "Macbeth" for the benefit of the Sanitary Commission. The house was completely crowded, and hundreds were turned from the doors. We are glad to hear that the fund will be largely benefitted, but are sorry to add that the ticket speculators got more than their share. Mr. HUMPHREY BLAND, under whose direction the entertainment was given, did not display any vast powers of management. The public was not informed of the opening day for the sale of tickets, and no precaution seems to have been taken to prevent the entire house falling into the hands of the ticket speculators. Under these circumstances, we are not at all surprised to hear that the principal operator claims to have made outside the house more than the gross receipts inside.

A performance in aid of that admirable charity, the Dramatic Fund, will take place at the Academy of Music in Brooklyn on Wednesday, Miss CUSHMAN and Mr. BOOTH again taking part therein. It is to be hoped that some more competent person than Mr. HUMPHREY BLAND will be found to conduct the enterprise.

The weather was unfavorable on Saturday, when Mr. THEODORE THOMAS gave his first popular concert, but there was, notwithstanding, a very fair audience, sufficient, at all events, to demonstrate that under more favorable auspices the Hall would have been completely crowded. Mr. THEODORE THOMAS has engaged an exceedingly efficient orchestra, composed of the very best players in the City; the ensemble is excellent, and could hardly be improved. Mr. THOMAS was assisted by Miss LUCY SIMONS, whose début on Tuesday last was so eminently successful, and by Messrs. GOTTSCHALK and SANDERSON on the piano. The programme contained all sorts of music, opening with an overture by BEETHOVEN and ending with a quadrille by STRAUSS. A symphony by MOZART (No. 3 in E flat) was excellently rendered; and a charming trifle called the "Aurora Polka" received the nicest attention. Miss SIMONS sang with great brilliancy and was encored in GOUNOD's Waltz. Mr. GOTTSCHALK played superbly, and played often, being recalled after each piece. The entertainment was, in all respects, successful, and the public will look forward with interest to the second concert on Saturday next.

Mr. GOTTSCHALK will give two more concerts at Irving Hall on Tuesday and Thursday of the present week. Several new artists will take part in them.

The announcements at the various places of amusement to-night are as follows: At Wallack's, the drama of "Rosedale;" at Niblo's, Miss MATILDA HERON in "Camille;" at the Winter Garden, Mr. J. S. CLARKE will appear in three pieces, the "Babes in the Wood," the "Russian Admiral" and "My Neighbor's Wife;" at the Olympic, Mrs. JOHN WOOD plays in the burlesque of "Pocahontas;" the farce of "My Preserver" is also given; at GEORGE CHRISTY's Minstrel Hall there is an entirely new programme.

Mr. ANSCHUTZ's season of German Opera prospers immensely in Baltimore. "Fidelio" was so successful that the season has been extended a week longer in order to accommodate the community.

Mr. FORREST's brilliant season at Niblo's had to be suspended in consequence of a serious and alarming sickness in the gentleman's family.

Mr. BARNUM has produced another ghost piece, and on such a liberal plan that the audience gets about a dozen spectres for a quarter, and goes away with a comfortable vampire-like sensation of being thoroughly and economically satiated. The production is called "Mariette; or, the Warning of Death," and can be seen every afternoon and evening until further notice. A new and amusing feature at the Museum is a ballet company which appears in a laughable trick pantomime called the "Vine Dressers of Como." M. ALEXANDER, the magician, gives his performances in the lecture room every hour, day and evening.

DEAFNESS,
CATARRH,
Discharges from the Ear, Noises in the Head, and all Diseases of the
EAR AND THROAT,
Exclusively Treated by
DR. LIGHTHILL,
Author of "A Popular Treatise on Deafness," "Letters on Catarrh," &c., &c., at his office
34 ST. MARK'S PLACE.
Office hours from 9, A. M. till 3, P. M.

FROM F. L. CAGWIN, ESQ., PRESIDENT CITY BANK, JOLIET, ILL.

Dr. Lighthill:

DEAR SIR: It affords me the greatest satisfaction to be able to inform you that I am still improving, and have the highest hopes that my ear will be entirely well by the time you at first mentioned it would take to effect a cure. I can say that I am truly thankful to the kind Providence which directed me to you. Since the first few days' use of your prescription, my ear has improved, and almost at once. I was relieved from a very depressed state of feeling and an almost intolerable case, to an elastic and hopeful state of mind. What Dr. John Nott replied to me as his experience, has been mine so far. My catarrhal trouble seems very much better also, and, indeed, altogether my health never was so good. I am weighing some five pounds more than is usual for me, (and more than I ever weighed before.)

I can but hope that it may be the good fortune of many with like troubles, to fall in the way of the benefit of your skill, and knowing how great the fear of imposition is with those who in time past may like myself have suffered by it, and feeling a wish, sincerely at this time, to aid and commend you in establishing a high and deserved position amongst us in your profession, I beg, therefore, that you will not hesitate to refer to me, as it may be of use. I also inclose herewith, Professor Nott's reply to my letter of inquiries, which I deem highly creditable to you, and of great importance to others, as it has been to me. I will visit you again soon. In the meantime, believe me, Yours, very sincerely,

JOLIET, Ill., July 17, 1863. F. L. CAGWIN.

FROM REV. JOHN NOTT, D. D., PROFESSOR IN UNION COLLEGE, SCHENECTADY, NEW-YORK.

FONDA, N. Y., April 29, 1863.

F. L. Cagwin, Esq.:

DEAR SIR: I received your letter of April 23 to-day. I have had from infancy one very deaf ear, and always discharging more or less offensive matter. This year both ears became diseased, running very much, very offensive, producing the greatest debility of body and depression of spirits, and my hearing impaired in the highest degree. In such a condition, I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill. He has fully restored me. I hear well; the dizziness and the discharge have been removed, and have not returned. The stopping of the running has given me the highest elasticity and vigor of body, and a flow of spirits, while my fears were that stopping the discharge would prove detrimental or dangerous.

I esteem, or rather have learned to esteem, Dr. Lighthill—for he was a stranger to me until I was his patient—as a gentleman and a man of science, in whom the highest confidence may be placed. Yours, very truly,

JOHN NOTT.

NEW-YORK, Sept. 2, 1863.

This is to certify that I have been afflicted with Catarrh for many years, which produced the usual disagreeable effects. I consulted Dr. Lighthill about nine or ten months since, and at once placed myself under his care. I am now entirely free from Catarrh, my throat is perfectly healthy, and my health is very much improved.

This is to certify that I have been troubled for some time with partial deafness, and a very unpleasant ringing sound in the head, which rendered conversation difficult, except in a loud tone of voice. I take great pleasure in stating that under the skillful and painless treatment of Dr. Lighthill, my hearing has been restored, and the singing sound in the head has ceased.

DR. LIGHTHILL—Dear Sir: I send you a statement of my case, which you may use as you think proper. I have acquaintances in different parts of the State, have served three years as Senator of Penobscot County, and three years as Representative, in all six years, in our State Legislature. My statement may benefit some of those afflicted with this disease.

For several years I have been afflicted with Catarrh. I have tried many prescriptions for it without receiving any benefit therefrom. I have taken your medicine about ten months, and it has cured me. I would recommend to those afflicted with this disorder to apply to you. I am confident, if they will strictly follow your directions, that a cure will be effected, however inveterate the case may be.

Respectfully yours,
IRA FISH.

Dr. Von Eisenberg:

DEAR SIR: Without recapitulating the numerous benefits I have received through your wonderful cure of the deafness I have labored under many years, the blessings I enjoy will convince the most sceptical.

I have tried many aurists, in Europe and America, without success. I was still deaf as a post.

Three years ago I entered your office, underwent one operation, hoping, yet doubting, I should receive any relief, but was agreeably disappointed in finding the genius of your profession.

The innate skill you possess cured my deafness in one almost painless operation.

The joy I experienced was indescribable: 'twas a new life to me.

My hearing is perfect to this day.

I strongly advise all who are suffering under a difficulty of hearing or total deafness, to consult you immediately; as I also personally recommend all who apply to me. The numerous calls trespass on my time and patience, yet, remembering my own long, weary affliction, causes me to pity them.

This is not written to advertise your well-known, unrivaled reputation—that would be puerile; but as a measure of precaution to induce all to call on you at once, without troubling me; yet I do not refuse to see any one who comes to me. This is the only way I can show my gratitude.

I also call the attention of those who are suffering from Catarrh, which disease I have labored under one year or more.

I experienced difficulty in breathing, langour, heaviness over the eyes, a sense of tightness on the brain, and copious expectorations of a hard and viscid nature. Accompanying this is a "polypus," quite filling the right nostril. On the 25th ult. you operated on both, killing the polypus, which is gradually passing away, and giving me great relief from the Catarrh. One more operation will effectually cure.

This testimonial brings with it my unalloyed and grateful thanks, with but a poor delineation of your wondrous skill as an Aurist.

I am, Sir, yours very gratefully,
EDWARD TEMPLE HARRISON.

Induced by the extensive sale and universal popularity of Hoofland's German Bitters, (purely vegetable,) hosts of ignorant Quacks and unscrupulous adventurers, have opened upon suffering humanity the flood-gates of Nostrums in the shape of poor whisky, vilely compounded with injurious drugs, and christened Tonics, Stomachics and Bitters.

Beware of the innumerable array of Alcoholic preparations in plethoric bottles and big-bellied kegs, under the modest appellation of Bitters, which instead of curing only aggravate disease, and leave the disappointed sufferer in despair.

Do you want something to strengthen you?
Do you want a good appetite?
Do you want to build up your constitution?
Do you want to feel well?
Do you want to get rid of nervousness?
Do you want energy?
Do you want to sleep well?
Do you want a brisk and vigorous feeling?
If you do, use HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

From Rev. J. Newton Brown, D. D., Editor of the Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge.

Although not disposed to favor or recommend Patent Medicines in general, through distrust of their ingredients and effects, I yet know of no sufficient reasons why a man may not testify to the benefits he believes himself to have received from any simple preparation, in the hope that he may thus contribute to the benefit of others.

I do this more readily in regard to Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, of this City, because I was prejudiced against them for many years, under the impression that they were chiefly an alcoholic mixture. I am indebted to my friend Robert Shoemaker, Esq., for the removal of this prejudice by proper tests, and for encouragement to try them, when suffering from great and long continued debility. The use of three bottles of these Bitters, at the beginning of the present year, was followed by evident relief, and restoration to a degree of bodily and mental vigor which I had not felt for six months before, and had almost despaired of regaining. I therefore thank God and my friend for directing me to the use of them. J. NEWTON BROWN.

PHILADELPHIA, June 23, 1861.

PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There are many preparations sold under the name of Bitters, put up in quart bottles, compounded of the cheapest whisky or common rum, costing from 20 to 40 cents per gallon, the taste disguised by Anise or Coriander Seed.

This class of Bitters has caused, and will continue to cause, as long as they can be sold, hundreds to die the death of the drunkard. By their use, the system is kept continually under the influence of alcoholic stimulants of the worst kind, the desire for Liquor is created and kept up, and the result is all the horrors attendant upon a drunkard's life and death.

For those who desire and will have a Liquor Bitters we publish the following receipt: Get one bottle Hoofland's German Bitters and mix with three quarts of good brandy or whisky, and the result will be a preparation that will far excel in medicinal virtues and true excellence any of the numerous Liquor Bitters in the market and will cost much less. You will have all the virtues of HOOFLAND'S BITTERS in connection with a good article of Liquor, at a much less price than these inferior preparations will cost you.

ATTENTION, SOLDIERS!
AND FRIENDS OF SOLDIERS.

We call the attention of all having relations or friends in the army to the fact that "Hoofland's German Bitters" will cure nine-tenths of the diseases induced by exposures and privations incident to camp life. In the lists published almost daily in the newspapers, on the arrival of the sick, it will be noticed that a very large proportion are suffering from debility. Every case of that kind can be readily cured by Hoofland's German Bitters. Diseases resulting from disorders of the digestive organs are speedily removed. We have no hesitation in stating, that if these Bitters were freely used among our soldiers, hundreds of lives might be saved that otherwise will be lost.

We call particular attention to the following remarkable and well-authenticated cure of one of the nation's heroes, whose life, to use his own language, "has been saved by the Bitters."

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23, 1863.

MESSRS. JONES & EVANS: Well, gentlemen, your Hoofland's German Bitters has saved my life. There is no mistake in this. It is vouched for by numbers of my comrades, some of whose names are appended, and who were fully cognizant of all the circumstances of my case. I am, and have been for the last four years, a member of Sherman's celebrated battery, and under the immediate command of Capt. R. B. Ayres. Through the exposure attendant upon my arduous duties, I was attacked in November last with inflammation of the lungs, and was for seventy-two days in the hospital. This was followed by great debility, heightened by an attack of dysentry. I was then removed from the White House, and sent to this City on board the steamer State of Maine, from which I landed on the 28th of June. Since that time I have been about as low as any one could be, and still retain a spark of vitality. For a week or more I was scarcely able to swallow anything, and if I did force a morsel down, it was immediately thrown up again.

I could not even keep a glass of water on my stomach. Life could not last under these circumstances, and accordingly the physicians who had been working faithfully, though unsuccessfully, to rescue me from the grasp of the dread Archer, frankly told me they could do no more for me, and advised me to see a clergyman, and to make such a disposition of my limited funds as best suited me. An acquaintance who visited me at the hospital, Mr. Frederick Steinbron, of Sixth below Arch-street, advised me, as a forlorn hope, to try your Bitters, and kindly procured a bottle. From the time I commenced taking them the gloomy shadow of death receded, and I am now, thank God for it, getting better. Though I have taken but two bottles, I have gained ten pounds, and I feel sanguine of being permitted to rejoin my wife and daughter, from whom I have heard nothing for eighteen months: for, gentlemen, I am a loyal Virginian, from the vicinity of Front Royal. To your invaluable Bitters I owe the certainty of life which has taken the place of vague fears—to your Bitters will I owe the glorious privilege of again clasping to my bosom those who are dearest to me in life.

Very truly yours, ISAAC MALONE.

We fully concur in the truth of the above statement, as we had despaired of seeing our comrade, Mr. Malone, restored to health.
